Queen Has Hoot 'n Holler Calgary 'Howdy'

CALGARY—The Queen flew 2,000 miles Thursday into a real western adventure, complete with daredevil cowboys, rough - riding redskins and an outdoor barbeque which lasted long after dark.

An estimated 400,000 persons welcomed the Queen and the Prince after they whistled in from Fort William aboard an RCAF Comet jet.

Calgary's traditional informality was evident throughout. There was no guard to inspect, no majestic pause for the booming of cannon.

Instead, a veteran's color party dipped flags and a pipe band shrieked a brief royal salute. There was a short handshaking ceremony climaxed by presentation of a white stetson to Prince Philip by Mayor Don McKay. Then the fun began.

A choir of SPEBQSA members (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America) gave out with Tumbling Tumbleweeds and Ragtime Cowboy Joe. Another group burst into a square dance.

Calgary has the largest area of any city from Toronto west. There seemed to be crowds on every inch of it—stetsoned, in levis and high-topped boots, and some even in bathing suits.

First stop was at Jubilee Auditorium where hundreds of Guides had been waiting 2½ hours in a broiling sun to cheer themselves hoarse.

Inside were Brownies, crippled children and Golden Age Club members, trumpeters of the Lord Strathcona Horse and vets from the Col. Belcher Hospital.

The Royal cavalcade drew increasing crowds on the way to the stampede grounds, a tour of the reconstructed Fort Calgary and the teepee village of the Blackfoot, Stony and Sarcee Indian bands.

There were 20,000 hooting and hollering in the grandstand as the Royal guests entered the gates.

And what a show. The Queen and Prince Philip were oblivious of the wave of dust kicked up as the chuckwagon races got under way.

Chuckwagons are four-horse work wagons used by ranchers for feeding range crews at round-up. They must weigh 1,350 pounds and carry a stove and other weighty equipment. As the race starts and the drivers give their rearing horses their heads, two cowboys must tumble a fly tent into the wagon while another loads the stove, sometimes running after the wagon with the stove in his arms. Then they mount to pursue their chuckwagon.

In one heat there can be 32 horses. It's a fight all the way, with a total prize of $23,680 to the winners.

The Royal couple were on edge of their seats. They met champions of other years, in bronc-busting, roping and other cowboy skills before departing, 75 minutes later than scheduled, as the voices of the 20,000 joined in "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

The mood changed as the party arrived for the barbecue at the vast estate of Judge M. M. Porter. Here the elite of society, 250 strong, waited as range cooks pitchforked 500 pounds of prime beef from glowing open pit grills, tossed salads and baked the cowman's staple—beans.

As the sun set on the foothills to the west, a massed pipe band marched and countermarched over the rolling field and mounted redcoats appeared in the distance, cantering in and out of the fringe of woods.

Later, the Queen and Prince Philip retired to the royal train which is carrying them today into B.C. and the 880-mile trip to the coast.

Here are some of the memories they carry with them:

The host of kids on bikes and motor-scooters who pedalled alongside the procession through town . . . the gifts from the city, mother-and-daughter charm bracelets for the Queen and Princess Anne and matching gold belt buckles

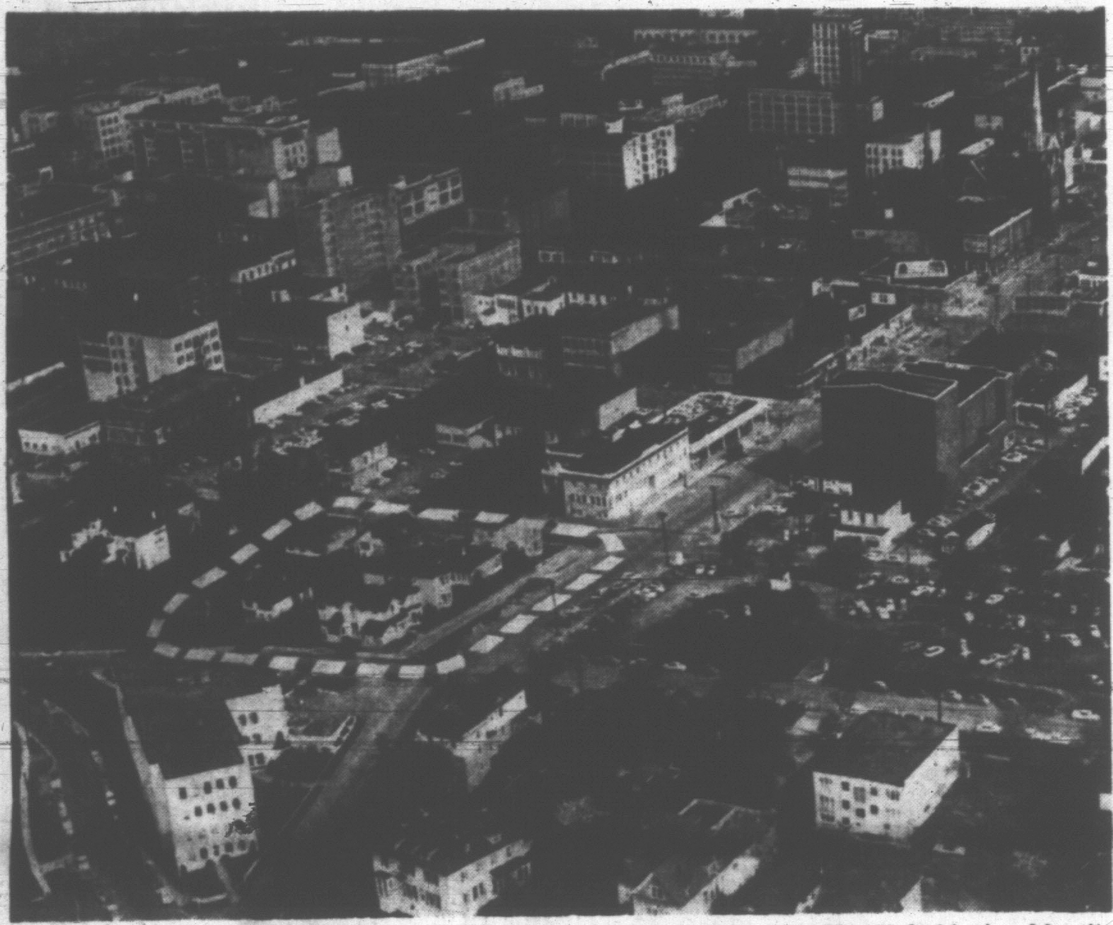
$1.8 Million Plan For New City Hall



Eight-storey City Hall will rise at Blanshard and Burdett, dotted circle above, if $1,800,000 deal is signed by city.

Queen Begins B.C. Tour

(See Page 17)

FIELD, B.C. — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip entered British Columbia this afternoon for the far western part of their national tour just like a pair of touring motorists.

They travelled by car from Banff, Alta., to Lake Louise and then to Field over the newly-reconstructed section of the Trans-Canada Highway.

They saw the first section of the spectacular Rocky Mountains from the highway and then boarded the royal train again here.

Ahead of them is an eight-day journey through B.C. which will be interrupted by a two-and-a-half-day holiday at secluded Pennask Lake.

TREAT FOR CHILDREN

The train arrived at 10 a.m. MST, exactly on time. The royal couple had spent the night aboard it in Calgary and made the 80-mile run to Banff in less than two hours.

The hatless prince wore a tan suit.

After the official greetings the Queen and the Prince walked directly to their open convertible for a drive through Banff.

As they got into the car Prince Philip started to sit down but the Queen motioned him to rise. As they left the station the royal couple were standing up in the car so they could be seen easily.

'Pay Later' Deal Offered by Firm

By JOHN MIKA

Plans were unfolded in city council today for construction of a modern eight-storey, $1,800,000 City Hall at Cathedral Hill.

Dominion Construction Co. Ltd., a large Vancouver firm that has specialized in erecting multi-million-dollar lease-purchase buildings, offered the deal to the city.

It involves:

Erection by the company of the building on the city's chosen site at Blanshard and Burdett, opposite the B.C. Power Commission;

Purchase of the building to be made by the city under one of several possible arrangements which would defer heavy committment of capital;

Reservation of four stories, totalling 72,000 square feet of floor space, for civic offices, two stories for school board offices, two floors for subleasing, probably to a government agency.

The plans put the city's aspirations for a new civic hall into practical terms for the first time. Aldermen attending the special council meeting were shown a $1,500 model of the modern structure planned by Dominion Construction designers after weeks-long consultations with architect Roderick Clack of the city engineer's department.

Decision to enter the deal would result in a chain reaction of developments transforming downtown Victoria.

It would:

Free the present City Hall, public market and old main fire hall properties for sale as a package for a huge commercial development—a long-held dream—and raise close to $500,000 for a payment on the proposed City Hall;

TERRIFIC IMPETUS

Inject a terrific impetus into the proposed development of the Cathedral Hill civic centre project which is to see early construction of a new court house by the provincial government.

Make it possible for the school board to vacate overcrowded Craigdarroch Castle, freeing the historic building for development as a museum and tourist attraction.

EX-VICTORIAN GETS POST

2 New Judges Named for B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of two new justices to the Supreme Court of British Columbia was announced today by Justice Minister Fulton.

They are T. G. Norris, 65, of Vancouver, and David Verchere, 53, of Kamloops.

The appointments fill two vacancies created by legislation passed at the present session of Parliament.

The new appointments give the supreme court this lineup: Seven from Vancouver, four from Vancouver Island and three from the interior of the province—a total of 14 judges.

Mr. Justice Norris, a native of Victoria, is senior partner in a Vancouver law firm and one of the province's most prominent lawyers. A decorated veteran of the First World War, he served in the last war as senior Canadian legal officer overseas and left active service with the rank of colonel.

He is a former member of the B.C. council of the Canadian Bar Association and was for many years treasurer of the Law Society of B.C.

FULTON'S FIRM

Mr. Justice Verchere, born in Ayr, Ont., is a partner in the Kamloops law firm formerly headed by the justice minister. Mr. Fulton left the firm when he joined the cabinet two years ago.

The justice department announcement said he has long been known as one of the leading practitioners in the British Columbia Interior. He has appeared extensively before all the courts of the province and has acted as Crown prosecutor on numerous occasions as well as defence counsel in a number of major criminal cases. He is a past president of the Yale Bar Association.

Mr. Justice Verchere served overseas in the last war with the 23rd Armored Regiment, ending his war career as a lieutenant-colonel.

Ironworkers Ordered Arrested

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice A. M. Manson today ordered the arrest of seven ironworkers who neither turned up for work nor appeared before him in British Columbia Supreme Court as ordered.

The men are part of a group of 18 Mr. Justice Manson Thursday ordered to return to work on the strike-bound $23,000,000 Second Narrows Bridge across Vancouver harbor.

He ordered the men to either report for work at 8 a.m. or appear in court at 10 a.m.

He said today their absence in court constituted contempt, ordered their arrest and detention until they appear before him Monday.

CANADIANS TO BUILD 214 NEW JET FIGHTERS

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will order 214 F-104G supersonic fighter planes from a Canadian manufacturer, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley said today.

This was the first time that the minister has given the number of aircraft it will buy to equip eight of the 12 RCAF squadrons in Europe.

EVERYTHING TIED UP BY ONE FINGER

Mrs. Minter's Mad Fling

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Olga Minter's washing machine, a button and Mrs. Minter's finger tied up 15 firemen, two policemen, an ambulance crew and a doctor for two hours Thursday.

A button lodged in the washer's drain pipe. Mrs. Minter, 30, stuck her finger into the pipe to try to dislodge the button.

The finger wouldn't come out.

She sat on the floor beside the machine and tugged. The finger stayed stuck.

The telephone began ringing. Mrs. Minter tried to reach the telephone by dragging the washer along with her. This hurt her finger so much she had to stop.

Water leaking from the machine spread a puddle about her, soaking her backside. And then her three-week-old baby began howling for his dinner.

SIZES IT UP

At this point a neighbor fortunately walked in, sized up the situation and made an emergency telephone call.

The firemen, the police and the ambulance all arrived at the same time.

"I've never felt so ridiculous in my whole life as when all those men walked in," said Mrs. Minter.

While her rescuers began their tug-of-war with the washer, a huge crowd assembled outside. This tied up traffic for blocks around.

In desperation, the doctor was about to have Mrs. Minter—washing machine and all—taken to hospital. Then "plop." The finger gave and the day was saved.

Iraq Battles Flare

Fear of Clash Speeds Pickets to City Plant

Violence was averted today when striking IWA men threw extra pickets on their line at the Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. Ltd. plant to stop an expected movement of "hot" material.

When word reached the picket lines today that a contractor might visit the plant to pick up material, an extra 15 men were rushed to the site to reinforce the 20 men already on duty for the striking International Woodworkers of America.

According to reports, office personnel were inviting bystanders to come into the retail store, while pickets were exhorting them to stay away.

The contractor did not appear, and at press time all was quiet at the plant, at 2614 Bridge Street.

C. J. Madigan, second vice-president of Victoria Local 1-118, IWA, blamed the company for inciting trouble.

"We have a legal picket here and will try to maintain it," he said. "About 100 men are employed here and if there is trouble we can get more pickets.

"This is the only place in town where we are having trouble," he said.

Company officials, however, said the union had been trying to stop customers from entering the store on legitimate business.

The Bridge Street plant, in addition to being office headquarters for the millwork plant, is a retail outlet handling all kinds of builders' hardware, paint, and other hardware items in a steady trade with the general public.

"There is nothing illegal about a customer entering our shop," a company spokesman said.

No Government Action In Sight

There is no immediate prospect of the government taking part in negotiations between coast timber operators and 27,000 striking woodworkers, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said today.

"The parties are squared off for a fight, and neither side has asked for government intercession," he said.

Only some 2,200 woodworkers voted against the strike in last month's government-supervised vote on the wage issues between lumber operators and woodworkers, Mr. Wicks said.

Disclosing details of the vote, the minister said the IWA lists 27,829 members.

Of these a total of 22,832 cast ballots and 20,448 favored a strike while 2,200 voted against. There were some spoiled ballots.

A total of 203 IWA bargaining units took part in the vote and 191 favored a strike while 12 were against.

Premier Bennett said Thursday in Vancouver the government will increase spending to help overcome the blow to the province's economy created by the strike.

At the same time he said in an interview the government is "very anxious" to bring both sides in the dispute together.

"We won't withdraw into a shell," he said. "B.C. is in a good financial position and we intend to step up more contracts to keep the economy good."

He did not elaborate.

It has been estimated that the strike against 123 coast operators which entered its fifth day today is costing the economy between $1,000,000 and $3,500,000 a day.

The premier said the em-

PUB VIOLENCE DISTURBS SIU

VANCOUVER (CP)—Members of the Seafarers' Internation Union (Ind.) have been told by their officers to stay clear of violence, even if it means staying out of beer parlors.

Norm Cunningham, SIU port agent here, said in a statement today the union condemns the brawlings in public places of the last few days.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Another union may become involved in the complicated Northland Navigation Company dispute.

The Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) announced in a statement today that James Hoffa, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, has assured the SIU of support.

The National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC) now is on strike against Northland and in a dispute with the SIU which claims jurisdiction over Northland engineers.

The International Warehousemen's and Longshoremen's Union (CLC) has refused to cross engineer picket lines and for a while SIU men were unloading and loading Northland ships.

The ships now are tied up because deck officers refuse to sail without N.A.M.E. engineers.

TORONTO—A Toronto artist said today the Trintoretto painting for which the Toronto Art Gallery paid $90,000 earlier this year is a gyp and possibly a fake.

Kenneth Forbes, who says he saw the original painting in Spain recently, said the gallery has been "hoodwinked."

Mr. Forbes said the Toronto painting, Christ Washing His Disciples' Feet, is inferior to the one he saw in Madrid.

There are four known copies of this painting, only one of which was painted by Trintoretto. The others were done by his students and members of his family with some assistance from the master.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Policeman William Ryke lost his eyeglasses to a petshop monkey.

The monk snatched Ryke's glasses right off his nose as he bent to read a sign on the cage. Attendants got them back through a ruse.

Ryke then read the sign—"watch your eyeglasses."

LONDON—Police dogs are going to join the world famous guard at Buckingham Palace, it was reported today.

The London Daily Mail said the dogs will take the place of 12 men in the huge gardens behind the palace.

The guards regiment is running short of human recruits.

The course, held at the Detroit Police Academy, attracted such nightclub entertainers as Blaze Fury, Reddi (No No) Sloan and Senorita Yum Yum.

Presiding over the course was Inspector Melville Bullach, head of the police censor bureau. Bullach instructed the girls how to strip in Detroit and stay out of jail.

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—Actress Deborah Kerr was awarded an uncontested divorce Thursday from her husband of 13 years, British actor Anthony Bartley.

The 37-year-old Scotland-born actress charged Bartley with cruelty, saying he caused her "a great deal of suffering, mentally and otherwise. There would be days at a time when he would not speak to me."

for Prince Philip and Prince Charles.

There were the flowers sent by Mayor McKay to the Royal train. They bore the dates July 10, 1949, and 1959 — a pretty reminder of the day 10 years ago when King George VI announced the engagement of his eldest daughter.

There was the pantomime on the auditorium stage where the Queen received an earlier bouquet in silence. There was no microphone.

There was the Indian village of gayly painted exteriors, but not-so-gay interiors where as many as five families and sometimes 20 children live in each during stampede week. Proud of their traditional beaded and feathered dress, the Indians don't smile much, except for the children—especially the one hoisted on the shoulders of a burly photographer to better see her Queen.

There was the chat with Calgary's stampede queen Julie Ackerman. The Queen asked the junior queen how long she would reign. There was the appearance of a uniformed wren at the barbeque — petty officer Rosalee Auger of HMCS Naden at Esquimalt. She became an aide to the royal party in January and served in the royal yacht during the seaway tour as a seagoing Wren. She hopes to look in on the "Wrennery" at Naden next week, but expects a draft to Halifax at the tour's conclusion.

Finally, Prince Philip indicated he would remember the 37 pipers and drummers of the Calgary highlanders and the 19th artillery, bitter rivals, who marched Thursday in truce. "They play well together," he told their pipe majors.

ployers, represented by Forest Industrial Relations, and the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) are being "unrealistic."

"I think there is an area of settlement—an area of agreement between 10 and 12 cents an hour for a one-year agreement."

The woodworkers are demanding a 20 per cent wage increase over a base rate of $1.72 in a one-year contract. The employers have offered 12 cents in a two-year contract.

Both sides in the dispute today were awaiting the outcome of anti-picketing injunctions and damage claim hearings conducted in Vancouver.

Trouble spots involved were the Ogden Point dock here and a pulp mill operation in Port Alberni.

A group of men wearing large IWA lapel buttons at Ogden Point resulted in a refusal by longshoremen to work three lumber ships in port. At Port Alberni, the IWA was accused of trying to induce pulp and paper workers to leave their jobs and of marking some logs and lumber as "hot".

Inquiry Launched

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has appointed a commission under Prince Albert, Sask., lawyer Walter H. Nelson, to inquire into implementation of two long-standing treaties with Indians in the Mackenzie district of the Northwest Territories.

Citizenship Minister Fairclough, announcing the commission's establishment to the Commons today, said it held its first meeting Monday, in Aklavik, high in the territory along the Arctic-bound Mackenzie River.

Three States Plan Pacific Power Link

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The three Pacific Coast governors have agreed to launch a three-state power hook-up.

Governors Edmund G. Brown of California, Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Albert D. Rosellini of Washington, meeting here Thursday, adopted a three-point policy for working toward a proposed Bonneville power inter-tie.

The three states agreed to work together on a continuing study, but each reserved the right to make independent studies and evaluations.

The trio invited Montana and Idaho to join in the conferences, since they would be affected by any final agreement.

Ralph M. Brody, Brown's water adviser, told reporters after the meeting that the three governors agreed surplus power is available from the Bonneville Power Administration.

financing the purchase are open to the city. One would be lease-purchase, or a deferred payment scheme, which would see only interest being paid until a certain year when payments on the principal would commence.

The latter method would work in well with the city's financial position after 1975 when it will be virtually debt-free.

RENT REVENUE

Besides the sale price of the present City Hall property, Victoria could lay down almost $200,000 in cold cash by the end of the year if the current rate of sales of city-owned lots is maintained.

Also helping out would be the extra two floors of the proposed building that would bring in revenue while being sub-let.

Significantly, the additional two floors could provide more civic office space if the Greater Victoria area should amalgamate.

Dominion Construction vice-president G. R. Bentall filled out details of the plan after aldermen received a survey of the financial aspects by city manager C. C. Wyatt and a report on the construction facets at today's special meeting.

LONG SEARCH

The The proposed building is similiar to a design presented to the city by Mr. Clack this spring when studies of a combined city hall-civic auditorium were under way. It provides for a future addition of a civic auditorium.

The plans cap a years-long search by several councils for City Hall. They follow a deter- a method of obtaining a new city hall. They follow a determined bid by city officials to recover from a serious blow last year when Woodward Stores Ltd. was unable to complete a deal for purchase of the present City Hall and adjoining property.

City aldermen Thursday agreed to lease a ballfield on Hillside to the Junior Chamber of Commerce for another year for use as a Little League park.

WATERFRONT GOONS

'Enough Bats To Start Ball League'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police arrested 13 men armed with baseball bats, bicycle chains and a shotgun Thursday and said they believed they had prevented a serious outbreak of goon warfare in Vancouver's waterfront union squabble.

he men were arrested as they drew up in three cars outside a hotel in downtown West Hastings Street. The weapons were seized when officers lined them up against a wall and searched the cars.

"There were enough bats to start a baseball league," an officer said.

Three men were injured and eight arrested Wednesday night in a beer parlor roughhouse during which one faction accused another of doing "scab" work during the two-week-old strike of engineers against Northland Navigation. Forty men were involved.

"GOON SQUAD"

One man was injured in a similar fracas Tuesday night which resulted in no arrests.

Furniture and glasses were hurled in the two earlier incidents. Police said Thursday night's seizure indicated the dispute had developed into "goon squad" activity.

Officers had been patrolling downtown streets all evening on the lookout for further disturbance involving members of rival groups in the heated jurisdictional dispute. The men arrested were charged with possession of offensive weapons.

ASK CERTIFICATION

Meanwhile the dispute took a new turn Thursday night.

A spokesman for a group of Northland engineers said application has been made for a change in certification which would certify the Seafarers International Union, recently expelled from the Canadian Labor Congress, as bargaining agent for the men.

The engineers at present are represented by the National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC) which called the strike against Northland June 26 in support of pay increase demands.

Kevin Heard, who described himself as spokesman for a group of 18 Northland engineers, said affidvits have been forwarded to the federal labor relations board asking that the N.A.M.E. be decertified and a vote taken to determine a new bargaining agent.

The SIU was expelled from the CLC following complaints by the N.A.M.E. of a raid on its membership.

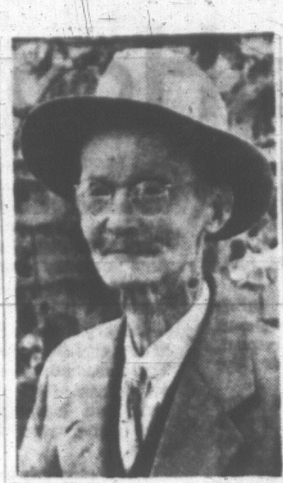
The N.A.M.E. has accused SIU of supplying men to replace the striking engineers and longshoremen who have refused to work the company's 11 struck vessels.

ARRANGE FOR SUPPLIES

Capt. Harry Terry, president of Northland, said Thursday night the company has made arrangements for supplies to be taken to northern coastal communities which rely on Northland services for their only means of surface communication.

He said small boats would take the needed supplies, none of which would come from Northland ships. He declined to give further details.

There was no report of any progress towards a settlement in the engineers' pay dispute. The men are seeking a 20 per cent increase in their present rate which ranges from $330 a month.



PIONEER Ladysmith resident James Weir celebrated his 95th birthday this week at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Berod. Until recently he was a regular exhibitor in the flower section of the Ladysmith fall fair.

The union members work for Fraser Valley Frosted Foods, Ltd., which is in the midst of the soft-fruit processing season.

They are seeking wage increases and adjustments in working hours that would boost the average worker's pay almost 20 per cent.

PENTICTON — The three-ton limousine which the Queen and Prince Philip will use during their stay in British Columbia arrived here Thursday night in an RCAF flying boxcar from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The big car, equipped with a plexiglass top, was taken by an army driver to Vernon, where the royal couple will make a city tour Saturday. The limousine also will be used for the Kamloops visit Tuesday.

The car will be returned here Wednesday and flown to Vancouver for use during the coastal section of the B.C. tour.

Runaway Heiress Nabbed by Police

CONSETT, Eng. (Reuters)—Katherine Dowsett, 20-year-old runaway heiress, was taken into custody today by a London high court official who will escort her back to London.

Miss Dowsett, a ward of the court, was detained Thursday night by police as she was riding in a car with her fiance, London playboy Edward Langley, 27.

She was held on a warrant for contempt of court.

The blonde heiress ran away to Scotland with Langley last May. Later they returned to England when a judge ordered Langley to return her to court custody.

She again was reported missing from London, June 6, and by June 27 she and Langley had given notice of their intention to marry to a registrar in southern Scotland.

Later the girl's father, shipping magnate Harry Dowsett, lodged an objection to the marriage and the London high court ordered her not to see or have any communication with Langley. The order was not applicable as long as the couple remained in Scotland.

Special spaces are being reserved for children and elderly people so they will get a good look at Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip when they visit Pioneer Park in Duncan next Thursday.

A crowd of close to 12,000 is expected to greet the royal visitors.

The youngsters are asked to be in their places, which will be specially designated, promptly at 1:30 p.m. Two hundred chairs will be provided for elderly people, and tickets for these may be obtained at the city hall.

The Queen is not expected to speak here but if time permits, after the introduction of civic dignitaries, she may walk briefly around the park area in front of assembled groups.

Royal visit committee officials are not expecting rain, but in the event of a sudden and heavy downpour the reception may be switched to the Cowichan High School auditorium, which will only hold around 1,400 persons. In this case, priority will be given to children.

In Chemainus, between 3,000 and 5,000 persons are expected to line the route of the Royal couple's "slow drive" through the community.

The Queen and Prince Philip are scheduled to arrive via the Old Highway at 11.45 a.m., and drive slowly along Oak and Willow Streets, Mill Road, and the Old Highway to the golf course.

There will be several reserved areas on Willow Street for special community and district groups. Members of Branch 191, Canadian Legion, will line up from the United Church to the firehall. The area in front of the municipal sub-office will be reserved for old age pensioners.

Cubs, Scouts, Brownies and Guides will assemble between the office and the theatre. The lawn in front of the Horseshoe Bay Inn, adjacent to the golf cource, is also being reserved for interested groups. The Royal couple will pass this point on their way to luncheon on the fourth fairway of Mt. Brenton Golf Club course.

The committee in charge of publicizing the Royal visit will distribute 400 flags to Chemainus children.

HEALTH

Forerunners of the written word, Egyptian hieroglyphs implied words, sounds, and even ideas. Thus the utchat, or watching eye, came to symbolize health.

Could you ever think of toasting a friend with "Here's to your utchat"? Happily, it is always in good taste to proffer a drink of Grant's Stand Fast—so good, it symbolizes a host of toasts—including "to your good health and happiness"

Big Hunger Strike Smashed at Prison

REIDSVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—A state prison hunger strike by inmates who demanded fried eggs for breakfast was broken up today when 225 ringleaders were hauled off in handcuffs to other prison camps.

State corrections director Jack M. Forrester said the men responsible for the demonstration would be placed in isolation for 30 days and given a diet of bread and water.

"I think this has cracked it," Forrester said. "We've got the ringleaders and after they were removed you could hear a pin drop."

The inmates of the huge state prison began their hunger strike Thursday but the prison authorities had been expecting it for almost two weeks and were ready to move in swiftly to put it down.

Forrester said the men will be dispersed among 16 other state institutions and 85 county work camps. They will get bread-and-water diets except for one full meal every five days.

A "hard-core" of 140 prisoners went to the rock quarry prison for incorrigibles at Buford, where in recent years numbers of inmates have slashed their heel tendons to avoid the hard labor.

Forrester said that all the good time incurred by the 225 hard-core inmates and all future good time has been "wiped out" as additional punishment.

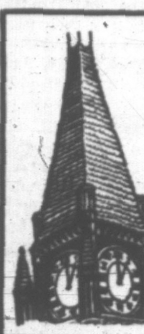
"They will have to serve their full sentences," he said.

The hunger strike started at breakfast and some 1,000 inmates had joined the hunger strike at supper time last night. The prison has 2,696 inmates.

'DISTANT' MPs GET PASSES

OTTAWA (CP)—In a new deal to help Commons members from distant constituencies, two Trans-Canada Air Lines passes will be available to them each session of Parliament.

"This isn't something to make life cushy for members of Parliament," said Transport Minister Hees. "It is to enable them to do a better job of representing their constituents."



IN PARLIAMENT

No Party Politics Over Foreign Policy

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—There will be no playing party politics over foreign policy, the government has been assured.

New External Affairs Minister Howard Green got this promise of a continuation of existing relations from the opposition groups as he engaged Thursday in his first major external affairs debate since taking office.

For the Liberals, spokesman Paul Martin (Essex East) said Mr. Green will get from them "co-operation, understanding and collaboration."

For the CCF, H. W. Herridge (Kootenay West) said: "We seek no party advantage."

The 63-year-old Mr. Green, handling his public works portfolio as well as external, told the House in his first big external affairs speech that there can be no alternative to negotiation in solving world problems.

Canada, he said, favors a summit meeting with as few participants and as few attached conditions as possible.

In roving around the globe during a long exposition of Canadian foreign policy before his departmental estimates finally were approved late Thursday night, Mr. Green also said:

1. If the Berlin question can be settled, the way should be opened for consultation between East and West on broader problems.

2. He intends to lead the Canadian delegation at the September session of the UN General Assembly and to spend as much time there as possible.

3. Thermonuclear war is unthinkable and there is no alternative to negotiations for the solution of these problems.

4. Nothing visible on the horizon suggests the "luxury" of slackening in defence preparedness of the free nations.

Stuart Fleming (PC-Okanagan-Revelstoke) suggested Thursday that Canada might do more to help refugees still homeless in camps 14 years after the Second World War.

Speaking during an external affairs debate, he said Canada's record in providing refugee assistance is as good as any country's.

"But we have not perhaps done as much as we might have for those who are classified in United Nations parlance as difficult cases."

Creation of a "loose federation" of the governments of West and East Germany as a first step in solving the German question was proposed Thursday by H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West).

He said that such a move could lead to free elections in which the people of Germany would decide the future of their country.

"In our opinion this could be a step toward breaking the deadlock which has been created by the West's insistence on free elections as a first step and the Russian determination to resist free elections.

Senator James Gladstone said Thursday Indians sometimes "encounter a cold formality" among men of the Indian affairs branch.

The native-born Indian of Alberta's Blood Reservation, only member of his race in Parliament, made the observation during a meeting of the joint Commons-Senate committee on Indian affairs.

Citizenship Minister Ellen Fairclough, under whom the Indian affairs branch comes, said afterwards she agrees with Senator Gladstone's statement.

Iraqi Army Behind Anti-Red Move

BOSTON (AP)—The Christian Science Monitor, an international daily newspaper, reported Thursday in a copyrighted article that the Iraqi army, rather than Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, may be responsible for anti-Communist steps now being taken in Baghdad.

Harry B. Ellis, Mediterranean correspondent for The Monitor, wrote from Beirut, Lebanon:

"It is believed that the Iraqi officer corps—deeply disturbed by Communist inroads into the security organizations of that country—made a deal with Kassem whereby there would be no army coup to unseat him, if the premier made anti-Communist moves."

VANIER MUM ON NEW POST, OFF TO EUROPE

MONTREAL (CP)—Maj.-Gen. George Philias Vanier sailed with his wife for Europe today—without giving a sign of whether he'll be Canada's next governor-general.

The tall diplomat-soldier, now retired, just smiled when asked by reporters about persistent rumors that he is to be named the Queen's representative in Canada, succeeding Governor-General Massey.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I have no comment on the reports."

SUSPECTS ISOLATED AFTER RECORD SEIZURE

RCMP Step Up Drug-Ring Probe

MONTREAL (UPI)—Police continued their investigation of a vast international narcotics ring today after isolating in special cells two suspects already under indictment in Chicago in the theft of $15,000,000 worth of bonds.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police seized the men, Guiseppe (Pepi) Cotroni, 45, and Rene (Bob) Robert, 31, early Thursday in an eastend motel. The men appeared later in the day before Judge M. A. Blain on counts charging conspiracy between themselves with "with others unknown" and trafficking in heroin. No plea was taken.

They were remanded without bail until June 16 for preliminary inquiry. Joseph Cohen, counsel for the RCMP, told the court "the operation with which these men are alleged to have been connected is so big that any bail at all Your Lordship could fix would not adequately ensure their presence in court."

The Two-Edged Sword

JAPAN IS REDUCING ITS IMPORTS from Canada—and at a time when all our exports are falling. Why should Japan do otherwise when Canada is deliberately curtailing Japanese sales in our market? As always, a policy of import restriction proves to be a double-edged sword which cuts down exports.

Lately the Canadian Government has persuaded (i.e. compelled) Japan to reduce its sales of textiles, mainly cheap clothing, in this country. With a disarming announcement to Parliament, Mr. Fleming says Japan has voluntarily agreed to put its textile exports under control and thus reduce its competition with the Canadian textile industry of Ontario and Quebec.

But there was nothing voluntary about this action, as Mr. Fleming's statement shows. The new policy was imposed on the Japanese exporters only after Mr. Fleming had made strong representations to the Japanese Government. Clearly Japan was not persuaded. It was coerced by the implicit threat that, if necessary, Canada would impose direct restrictions, probably under the new anti-dumping law which gives the Government almost unlimited power over imports. Thus our tariff arrangements with Japan, a solemn contract, have been politely repudiated and the principles of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade violated.

Two results must follow and already are appearing. The Canadian consumer will pay more for clothing, which is the whole purpose of the Government's policy of assisting the Canadian textile industry. Secondly, with its earnings in the Canadian market reduced, Japan will buy less of our goods, to the special injury of British Columbia.

In 1957 we sold $139 million to Japan and bought $61 millions, the trade balance being more than a hundred per cent in our favor. Last year Japan bought only $104 millions from us and sold us $70 millions. In the first quarter of this year Japan bought $27 millions and sold $21 millions.

The pattern is unmistakable and the reason is also unmistakable. As it earns less Canadian dollars Japan will and must buy less Canadian goods. The bargain was already lopsided in our favor when the Canadian Government distorted it still further at Japan's cost.

The Japanese have politely accepted the new Canadian restrictions, being powerless to prevent them, but they are taking their trade elsewhere.

As was remarked by the Opposition in the House of Commons, the results of the Canadian policy are not confined to higher prices and a reduction in our exports which provide jobs for Canadians. If the Western nations generally refuse to trade adequately with Japan it will be driven ultimately into massive trade with the adjacent market of Communist China. The political results of that economic re-orientation are not difficult to imagine. But in the world struggle they are difficult to over-estimate.

To satisfy its friends, the textile interests of central Canada, which employ relatively few Canadians, the Diefenbaker Government is playing a very dangerous game.

Another Triumph at Butchart's

WHEN MR. AND MRS. IAN Ross first conceived the idea of joining the fine music of Victoria's Symphony and guest artists to the floral magnificence of the Butchart Gardens the concept promised one of the esthetic treats of the continent.

The sustained high quality of the programs, talent of the guest artists and beauty of the gardens in succeeding performances has justified that promise—never more completely than last evening.

Weather has always posed a hazard for these outdoor events. It could not have been more agreeable than for the most recent concert. The record crowd—something over 6,500—bore witness to that fact.

This is another triumph for Mr. and Mrs. Ross in a continuing entertainment achievement which enhances the reputation of gardens known all over the world. This community is grateful for the initiative and imagination shown by the sponsors, proud of the record they have established in the happy wedding of music and flowers.

The enjoyment of thousands last evening is the best advertisement that could be devised for the next concert on July 23.

End of 'Escalation' Era?

THERE ARE SUBSTANTIAL differences between the steel industry in the United States and the timber industry in British Columbia.

There are, also, some important similarities. Steel is the backbone of United States industry. Timber holds an analogous position in this province.

Labor and management are still attempting to negotiate new work contracts in the United States steel industry. In British Columbia, labor and management have entered the impasse of a strike on working contracts.

While the timber industry is largely idled on the Pacific Coast of Canada, it is interesting to note the report of Business Week on the United States steel situation.

In the latter, says the magazine, United Steelworkers hold a weak hand. Management is in a strong position. Public sympathy for the badly used unions of two decades ago is disappearing. The unions now are strong—and the federal administration as well as the public has become inflation-conscious.

A rise in steel production costs, of course, automatically spreads to all other industries which use steel. They, along with steel, see themselves in danger of pricing themselves out of their markets.

The general feeling, a recognition of the dangers of inflation, according to Business Week, has encouraged steel, and supporting industry, to declare the era of automatic annual wage increases, with corresponding increase in price, at an end. The period of "escalation" as it is phrased, has drawn, or is drawing, to a close.

"This does not mean," says Business Week, "that it (industry) will refuse to settle, in return for concessions, on terms that will mean a pay raise. There are persistent reports that the industry will make a small wage offer, inescapably tied to potential savings through work practices—one that could be defended as meeting its test of 'no net employment-cost increase in 1959'."

This is the position reported in present negotiations between steel management and the third largest and one of the wealthiest and most powerful unions in the United States.

In the meantime British Columbia is the loser as the woodworkers remain idle—and share with operators what has been estimated to be a million dollars a day loss.

Beyond that, while the strike continues, its example of unstable labor-management conditions in the province discourages development and the inflow of capital that could create more wealth and more jobs here.

The situation in British Columbia is tailor-made to please those forces which look hopefully toward the disintegration of the private enterprise system which has given Canada a standard of living second only to that of the United States. There the operators of the great steel industry are still bargaining with a mighty union which recognizes the weakness of its present position.

Good Luck, Vancouver Festival

THE VANCOUVER FESTIVAL enters its second season Saturday night with high expectations. An outstanding array of artists has been gathered, from many points of the globe, and they will perform in a new civic auditorium which would be a credit to any city in the world.

The program scheduled over the next few weeks offers something for everybody, covering a broad spectrum of cultural interests. Among the attractions, von Karajan and Bruno Walter will conduct the symphony; such renowned actresses as Eva Le Galliene and Viveca Lindfors will perform the Schiller play "Mary Stuart"; and the Negro folksinger, Harry Belafonte, will appear for one night in his repertoire of dramatic songs of the bayou.

This is a Festival deserving support of all parts of the province, since it spreads the name and fame of British Columbia throughout the world. The special "Festival tours" being operated from Victoria enhance the prospects of many memorable summer entertainments by the great artists of the world.

ANIMALS AROUND US

By DR. G. CLIFFORD CARL

Low Types on the Sea's Floor

Carl

LIKE their cousins, the sharks, skates and rays have had an early origin and are still "old fashioned" in many ways. They depend upon a skeleton of cartilage for support, not one of bone as in more advanced fishes, and they expel water through gill-slits rather than through a single gill-opening. The spiracle, an additional breathing pore on each side of the head, and the prickly skin, are also primitive structures found in this group.

They have undergone a major change in body shape, too, being much flattened as if pressed down by a great weight. The resulting shape, very broad and with a long thin tail, enables them to rest on the bottom in a most inconspicuous manner. Swimming now is accomplished by gentle undulations of the two wing-like side fins and not by general body movements as in the sharks. On the whole, skates and rays are rather sluggish in their movements.

Our largest representative of this bottom-loving group is the big skate, sometimes called eyed-skate, because of the two large eye-spots it sports on its upper surface. This fellow may grow to be 8 feet or more in length and almost as broad across the wing-tips.

It is frequently taken on set-lines and in bottom trawls and the "wings" are sold on the market in considerable quantities. The flesh is white, with a pleasing delicate flavor, differing from other types of fish mainly in texture. On the east coast unscrupulous dealers have sometimes substituted appropriately shaped plugs of skate wing for the much more costly scallop muscle, a practice that might fool anyone but a gourmet.

Renewable Dentures

Skates have several sets of teeth laid down in rows or seried ranks. As the teeth in the outermost rows become broken off or worn down by use, those of the inner rows move forward to take their place and more new teeth are being constantly formed. The teeth, being of hard material, persist long after the body of a dead skate has distintegrated and are consequently sometimes cast up on the beach where they may intrigue and puzzle the finder.

The rays are represented by two most unusual members—the sting ray and the electric ray. The former has a long whip-like tail, armed on the top surface with a greatly developed sharp spine. In some species of sting ray the spine is provided with a poison gland but whether or not our species is venomous is unknown. At any rate the spine alone can inflict a painful wound which can become serious if bacterial infection occurs. Fortunately this fish is quite rare; a few have been taken off the West Coast some years ago but more may turn up any time.

The electric ray is more common, yet people seldom see this fish. It is shaped like a skate except that the body is stouter and is provided with a fin on the end. It grows to a length of 3 feet and is bluish-grey in color with black spots.

In this fish nature has made use of a common phenomenon in a shocking manner. By combining all the tiny electrical impulses that are regularly generated when a muscle moves and then by discharging them all at once an electric current is produced sufficient to numb small prey in the immediate vicinity. It is said that the discharge is potent enough to paralyze a man's arm momentarily or to knock him down if he treads on the fish. The fish must be touched at two points in order to receive the full effect.

Shocking

While the electric ray is rather scarce in British Columbia a number of specimens have been taken at various points along the coast. One was caught on a plug near the surface in Saanich Arm a few years ago indicating that these fish are not confined to the bottom.

Another ancient type of fish that deserves attention is the rat-fish—a common resident of the deeper water all along our coast. Though this fish spends most of its life at depths around 40 fathoms, individuals occasionally wander into the shallows around wharves and when caught they excite a great deal of attention.

To say the least, this animal is bizarre-looking—so much so that the ancients likened it to the fabled chimaera which was supposed to be a creature combining the head of a lion, the body of a goat and the tail of a serpent. Its scientific name, Hydrolagus, means water-hare in reference to rodent-like teeth which protrude from the mouth.

In truth the rat-fish looks like something "out of this world". The head is large with a blunt snout under which is the mouth armed with large incisor-like teeth; the body tapers to a long thin, tail and is covered, not with scales, but with a smooth, silvery, iridescent skin marked with metallic spots. The side and belly fins are large and paddle like; the main fin on the back is preceded by a long sharp spine. The eye is large and bright green in color.

As if this combination of unusual characters was not enough the male has two rather startling additional features. In this sex there is a long cylindrical clasping organ behind each pelvic fin and the two structures are so conspicuous they are often mistaken for hind limbs! Then, on top of the head is a single club-shaped organ covered with curved spines, the whole designed to fit into a depression when at rest. The use of this curious-looking structure is unknown but it is presumed that it also functions as a clasper.

Weird

Several species of chimaeras live in various oceans of the world. Our weird-looking member is confined to the eastern Pacific.

The rat-fish's life story is not well known. It eats other fishes and also cracks open mussels and other shelled creatures for food using the strong teeth for this purpose. It may reach a length of just over a yard but two feet is a good average size. Eggs are laid in spindle-shaped capsules about 5 inches long which are stuck into muddy bottom.

Although these fish are so numerous that many tons may be taken from one haul of a net along the bottom in suitable places, they have no commercial value. At one time livers were saved because they produce a high grade, light-weight oil used for cleaning guns and lubricating fine instruments but at present there is no demand for such a product and it does not even pay to keep the carcasses for reduction into fertilizer.

Besides being our weirdest-looking fish the lowly rat-fish has one other distinctive feature. It is our only fish possessing venom. The tissue covering the base of the dorsal spine has been found to secrete a poison which adds greatly to the pain produced by a puncture. Several other British Columbia fishes have spines but so far as is known they do not carry venom.

'Plum Crazy'

"It's crazy, plum crazy."

So said a logger, angered beyond words, because he could not go to work on Monday morning.

Men receiving $15 to $20 per day are looking for some agreement. Some mill men get less, so surely common sense could be used to make an adjustment without causing this colossal disruption of wages and production. Such unreasonableness hurts the union. "Too much rope killed the calf."

Where is the voice of the wives in this missuse of leadership?

Is unionism as it is today obsolete, out of date, unable to judge fair conditions?

Is it possible that there are no men or women capable, intelligent and honest enough to adjust a fair wage?

Must we deliberately lose wages and markets?

Stupidness more than communism is our enemy. Mr. K. must be laughing.

'Can't See How ...'

I can't see how Mr. Bennett can say B.C. will be free of debt when he has his bonfire.

It's like borrowing from the bank to pay off your mortgage. Your home is free but you still owe the money to the bank. We are paying the piper while he calls the tune.

We are taxed through the eyes and nose. Our taxes were double this year on our house. Fire insurance is up.

He has borrowed millions from the U.S.A. and when they are through the people of this province will find there are millions of hidden debts. He compares this province to Ontario. You could put the entire population of B.C. into Toronto and suburbs and it would not be crowded.

I don't know about Mr. Bonner, but Mr. Bennett and his highway minister are supposed to be against drink in every form. Yet Mr. Bennett keeps opening new outlets for the sale of drink and does not mind how much misery it causes as long as he can rake in the profits. As for drink and crime, well it is an excuse for anyone who falls foul of the law to say he was drinking.

The money he is giving to the poor and needy is just a little soothing syrup to make people think he is a very good fellow and we will vote him back into power when election time comes.

Well, here is one who hopes he will get his just desserts and go down the drain like the dish water when we have washed our dirty dishes.

FROM HARTFORD

They Like Dick

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Alsop

THE other day, the Republicans of Connecticut's seventh district, which is all of northern Connecticut west of the river, had a dinner meeting in the pleasant little town of Simsbury.

Threading his way through the throng of town chairmen and committee women, First Selectmen and the like, was a visitor from a much higher political sphere, former Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn. "Who'd you like, Nixon or Rockefeller?" was Alcorn's question. As Alcorn tells it, Vice-President Richard M. Nixon was the universal choice. Among these people who constitute the entire working Republican organization in their part of the state, none favored the Presidential candidacy of New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

One veteran Republican First Selectman seemed to speak for them all. He began with the routine remark, that Nixon would be a good President and a good candidate too. He concluded, with an emphasis that implied severe criticism of Dwight D. Eisenhower: "And Nixon would build up the Republican party, and how we need it!"

Active Support

Other less rock-ribbed parts of this state would show results differing a little from the results obtained at the seventh district clambake. But there is no sign of active support for a Rockefeller candidacy anywhere in Connecticut, except among the exurbanites of Fairfield County which is really a dependency of New York City seething with men in grey flannel suits. And although the state's Republican leaders have made a pact among themselves to keep their mouths shut and their eyes open for a while, there are plenty of signs of active support for Nixon all over Connecticut.

Connecticut's decision does not make a convention decision, anymore than one swallow makes a summer. But although this is a small state, it is a state where the Republicans now want to win very badly.

Furthermore, this is a state where Rockefeller ought to show strength, if the New York Governor has real strength anywhere. In the three great Republican struggles since the Hoover debacle, Connecticut went for Landon in 1936, for Wilkie in 1940, and for Eisenhower in 1952. There is a hard core ex-Taftite minority here, of the sort that is automatically pro-Nixon nowadays. But these people have never controlled the state in any shown-down fight. Rockefeller sentiment could be expected to be visible here, too, because of the state's proximity to New York, and Nelson Rockefeller's many personal links with Connecticut leaders in both politics and business.

Grass Roots

The absence of such sentiment is surprising to a visitor from Washington. To the Washingtonian, so accustomed to the endless, airless political debate in the capital, it even comes as a bit of a shock to find the massiveness of the Vice-President's lead in the grass roots.

Back in Washington, half the experts—perhaps rather more than half the experts—wag their heads and sagely predict, "You wait and see; the Republican choice will be Rockefeller." Out here where the hunt for delegates is already in progress, it is hard to see how the Republican choice can be anyone but Nixon, except in two special sets of circumstances.

If the public opinion polls again begin to favor the New York Governor, the seemingly massive Nixon lead may prove pretty fragile after all. Just after the New York election, the beginnings of an impressive pro-Rockefeller tide could be perceived in Connecticut. The tide quickly subsided when the polls started to indicate that Nixon would run better than Rockefeller against the Democrats—even although the polls showed both of the Republicans running very poorly indeed. But let Nixon fall badly behind. Let the polls suggest that Nixon cannot win, whereas Rockefeller has a chance. Then there will be a knock-down, drag-out fight here in Connecticut, and no doubt in most of the other states that now seem sewed up for Nixon.

Foreign Policy Danger

As for the other circumstance that may destroy the Nixon lead, it is a major foreign policy disaster. After Nikita Khrushchev's grim remarks to Averell Harriman, no one can rule out the possibility of a really major disaster in the foreign field in the next twelve months. President Eisenhower may suddenly be caused to look like a hand-me-down Stanley Baldwin instead of a golfing Prince of Peace. In that case, although Nixon has often urged stronger foreign defence policies on Eisenhower, as a Vice-President he will surely be tarred with the brush of the President's failure. Once again, there will be an opening for Rockefeller.

Otherwise, it is very hard to see how there can be any opening for him. Otherwise, indeed, although Gov. Rockefeller is a bold long-shot bettor, it is hard to imagine him making his bet this time.

ON THE TIMES By ART STOTT

So They Go Back to School

Stott

WHETHER it be heredity or not, penmanship has been a lost cause for the male members of my family for three generations.

In the classic idiom, we ain't good at writin' writin'.

In fact I was so poor at outlining my letters that my mother sent me to Summer School when I was still at high to study under the redoubtable Mr. H. B. MacLean. My success was attested by two fine certificates. One, a parchment-like paper carrying the picture of a big Canadian Red Ensign, proclaimed that I sat correctly for the performance of the MacLean muscular movement method. The second, a little less flamboyant, announced that I held my pen properly.

These and several thousand inked ovals on lined pages, together with up-down-up-down-up-down strokes were all I had to show at the end of the course. Next year I took typing at Sprott-Shaw with somewhat more rewarding results.

Still I look back fondly on my Summer School experience. I enjoyed the school tennis tournament for the two games before I was knocked out. I won the swimming race at the annual picnic. And, as a boy from one of the lower grades in high school, I went to the Friday night dances with a crowd considerably my senior. That was educational, in a social or sociological way, I'm not sure which—though it wasn't quite what Mother had in mind when she sent me to improve my penmanship.

Just half way through my teens, I was the youngster of the school.

Today and during the last four years, the young teenager is common. Special classes are held for him in English, mathematics and social studies if he comes from Junior High and failed either one or two of those subjects, or in English if he is a senior high student who flubbed his test in that course.

This seems to me to be a pretty valuable arrangement.

I like it because it tends to light a fire under youngsters who have just been warming benches in regular school class. They have to get off the spot if they're junior high students, or they repeat their whole school year starting next term. The indolent have to start pitching—and the records show they generally do. Over 50 per cent of students who catch up at Summer School the subject they missed in regular term, go on to the next year with a satisfactory degree of success.

It isn't only the lazy who profit from the little extra stimulation. Those who have had difficulty not necessarily of their own creation, those who have missed classes through illness or by being transferred from one area to another, can also make up lost ground.

For parents of these junior high youngsters, there's a substantial cash gain in pushing their kids through Summer School courses—provided, of course, the parents intend to keep the children in school.

Figure it this way: a minimum annual earning ability of $1,000 should be well within the range of a youth going onto a steady job a couple of years after high school. If, instead of reaching the labor market at the average age, he is delayed a year by repeating a grade, that earning capacity is lost. Should he go on to still higher education, the potential earning ability dropped by repeating a year runs still higher.

I don't suppose that boys and girls at Summer School have quite the same degree of fun I did as the stray teenager among my older, but not too old, school mates of a long-gone summer. Human nature, I hope, should progress. And while the youngsters taking special classes to catch up may not feel themselves to be slaves, because Summer School can be enjoyable, they still know they're not on vacation.

The moral seems to be that unless they want to sacrifice holidays, they'd better hit a longer ball the following term in regular school. They're not on the chain-gang. But they're not footloose and fancy free either.

The experience should be valuable in stimulating greater effort in the next grade up. On the record, it seems to be.

UN CORRESPONDENCE By STANLEY BURKE

Waifs of the World

Burke

NEW YORK—The World Refugee Year, which opened last week, is proof that individual human beings can "do something" to improve conditions in the world. The idea for the Refugee Year was conceived by a group of young Englishmen, one of whom was Chris Chataway, the famous English runner who paced the first four-minute mile.

Travelling in Europe, they were appalled by the magnitude of the refugee problem and by the indifference to it. Looking into the matter, they found that there are refugees from Hitler still living in camps.

They found that some of these refugees have given birth to children and grandchildren who have known nothing but camp life. They found that in Greece there are refugees still homeless as a result of the war between Greece and Turkey just after the First World War.

Like many other people considering this, and many other problems, they asked "Why doesn't somebody do something?" The result was the World Refugee Year in which 52 countries are participating, with more expected to join.

Officials in the office of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees are delighted with support given the year, far greater than expected and infinitely greater than the group of young Englishmen ever dreamed when they first asked the question "Why doesn't somebody do something?"

Canada is one of the 52 nations supporting the year although the Canadian government has not yet announced what action it will take. Some other governments have been more vigorous in support of the WRY.

Brazil, for example, has announced that she will take 700 Russian refugees from Shanghai. These refugees are described by UN officials as the most pathetic of all the world's unhappy race of homeless people.

These people are refugees, or descendants of refugees, who fled Russia at the time of the 1917 rebellion. They are said to be suffering extreme hardship, and the UN is making strenuous efforts to move all of them out.

In the United States, President Eisenhower recently called a conference of 160 experts to advise on what contribution the United States could make to the Refugee Year.

The president, in a message to the conference, described the refugee situation as "acute and chronic," and said that WRY should "focus the concern and the ingenuity—and the generosity—of the world on the continuing problem of refugees."

In Canada, it's understood that the government has decided to take no action until greater public support has been generated. One reason for this inaction is said to be that the government doesn't wish to interfere in a field in which many private groups, such as churches, are active.

Probably more important is public opposition to increased immigration at a time when there is unemployment in Canada.

1958 Heat Taking Effect

Jack

It could well be that the effects of the above average temperatures of last summer will be as long taking their toll as the low temperatures of November 1955.

Unusual happenings have been noted among plants this spring for which no immediate cause can be found.

Strawberries and raspberries are examples. There are instances of strawberry plants starting out well early in the season and then gradually dying before picking time.

Although the plants seem to have lost their roots, no pest or disease has been located on which the trouble could be blamed.

Several readers have reported the gradual withering of the new growth on raspberry canes, and it appears that this trouble has been encountered throughout the district.

These, and other like problems, have given the provincial department of agriculture a busy time this spring, and no effort on their part has been spared to find the causes.

Since neither disease nor pest appears responsible, the present conclusion is that last year's above normal temperatures are to be blamed.

Both strawberries and raspberries bear early in the season, and once the fruit has been picked and enjoyed, the plants often receive little thought for the rest of the year.

Struggling to survive through the heat of last July, August and September certainly could have caused their failing.

This year's losses indicate that we must give the plants as much care and attention after fruiting as before.

Feeding, and watering, also a root area mulch for the raspberries, will build strong plants capable of withstanding the heat of summer and the cold of winter, and give us luscious berries to enjoy again next year.

MARKET DEMOLITION ASSURED

A $10,000 bylaw for demolition of the public market building, and development of a surface parking lot on the site needs only final reading before the wreckers go into action.

City council Thursday gave three readings to the bylaw after rejecting an offer of $37,000 for about a third of the public yard behind the building because it would have split up the site into several parcels.

Offer was made by General Fruit and Produce Ltd.

Ald. M. H. Mooney, staunch defender of the market, was outvoted in an attempt to block demolition, which will cost $6,420. An additional $3,500 will go into paving.

ADVISORY BOARD DISCUSSED

Gorge Smoke Nuisance Probed by Committee

City public works committee Thursday was asked by council to bring in recommendations on possible methods of preventing smoke and cinder nuisances in the Gorge area.

The committee also was to delve into the smoke bylaw's requirement that a five-man advisory board on smoke control should be set up. This never has been done.

Mr. Malcolm spent his two-week vacation gathering 265 names on a petition requesting council to compel industrial plants to obey the smoke bylaw.

He told council that many persons told him during his canvass that it was no use petitioning council "because the aldermen don't care about this."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said it should be made clear that all aldermen "are very concerned about the problem."

Mr. Malcolm said the smoke and cinders drifted over a large part of the Gorge and Burnside areas was a potential health hazard and was depreciating property values.

"We are not trying to make industry move away, only to prevent violation of the bylaw," he said.

He said that the smoke inspector told him if there were enough complaints, action might be taken.

"I guaranteed enough people would complain. That is the reason for this petition."

The smoke inspector, Thomas Walker, told council that the bylaw was satisfactory and not being broken by the mills.

He said the medical health officer once had stated that the cinders were not a health hazard and even that carbon "can be beneficial."

Mr. Walker also said most complaints come from the fringe of the industrial area where persons "have been attracted by low property values. They're getting what they might expect . . . the mills were there long before Mr. Malcolm was born."

"While the mills are sincerely endeavoring to cope with their problem, I don't think it is as serious as Mr. Malcolm says," he argued.

HEAVY FINE FOR SPEEDING IN HARBOR

A warning that owners of power boats traveling faster than six miles an hour in the inner harbor and the Gorge can be heavily fined under Victoria and Esquimalt harbor regulations, was made today by Capt. G. R. Newell, Victoria harbormaster.

Maximum fine for an infraction of the Harbor Act is $1,000.

The warning follows complaints from citizens that outboard motorboats are racing through the Gorge at high speeds and causing damage to small boats tied to floats.

'Beginning of End' Seen for Segregation

NEW YORK (AP)—An annual report of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People sees "the beginning of the end" of massive resistance to de-segregation in the south.

The report, released Thursday, said southern segregationists lost ground on every front during 1958. The report also said Negroes were particularly hard hit by the economic recession.

The report saw these developments during 1958 as examples of segregationist losses:

1. The U.S. Supreme Court decision on Little Rock schools reaffirming the school desegregation decision of 1954.
2. The election of a liberal Congress, increasing chances of enactment of stronger civil rights legislation.
3. The election in the South of Senators Albert Gore of Tennessee and Ralph Yarborough of Texas, both Democratic moderates.
4. Public reaction to the closing of public schools in Little Rock and in three Virginia cities.
5. Public reaction to the bombing of schools, churches and synagogues.

COARSE REMARKS, STORIES

Moscow Raps Fair Rowdies

LONDON (AP) — Moscow Radio complained today about some of the reception given the Soviet exhibition in New York and First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov.

A Soviet commentator said he could not understand why New York City authorities apparently are powerless to stop groups of rowdies from picketing the exhibition and from passing out anti-Soviet literature.

"They are vulgarly rude to the Soviet guides, and they write coarse, critical and abusive remarks in the visitors' book which are then picked up by certain newspaper men seeking sensations," the broadcast charged.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Steels, Pipelines, Banks Pace Upswing

Steels, pipelines and banks were the leaders as industrials paced the Toronto stock market to a moderate advance today in light trading.

Industrials, western oils and base metals were all up. Golds were down but price changes were few.

Demand for an assortment of selected issues pepped up an otherwise slow and irregular market at New York. Gains of about a point were made by U.S. Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Ford, Chrysler and Johns-Mansville.

AT TORONTO Noranda was down ⅜ at 52⅞ but most other senior base metals were higher. International Nickel gained ⅜ at 96½ while Hudson Bay was up ¼ at 52¼.

Seniors were the leaders in western oils. Home B added ⅜ at 16⅜ and Calgary and Edmonton was up ¼ at 26¼. Bailey Selburn was a 35-cent winner at $8.35.

AT NEW YORK Canadian Pacific and Walker Gooderham gained ⅛ each, Aluminium Ltd. ⅜, and International Nickel 1¼. Distillers Seagrams lost ¼; Dome Mines ⅜ and McIntyre Porcupine 1¾.

On the American stock exchange Canadian Marconi gained ⅛. Eureka and Preston East Dome each lost a fraction.

AT MONTREAL prices were generally firmer with most changes ranging to around a point in moderate trading today on the stock exchange.

AT LONDON the market was generally satisfactory today.

AT VANCOUVER the market was moderately active with an upward trend in mines, Canada Collieries moved 2,300 at $8.50 and Con. Potash sold 7,100 at 64c. Beaver Lodge traded 1,200 at 21c and Pacific Nickel traded 16,000 at 59c. Silver Standard sold 7,100 at 38c and Peace River Petroleum, 5,900 at 55c.

Taylor, Pearson Stock Offer By U.K. Firm

LONDON (CP) — Booker Brothers, McConnell and Company of London announced it will offer on or about July 15, $21 a share for all outstanding common stock of Taylor, Pearson & Carson Canada Ltd.

Taylor Pearson has 35 branches in Alberta and British Columbia and are wholesalers of motor car products, domestic appliances and sporting goods. They also have interests in radio and television broadcasting in Calgary and Lethbridge.

The broadcasting assets of the Taylor firm will likely be sold to a new company in which the Booker group will have a minority interest.

On April 18, 1958, Taylor Pearson reported 319,478 outstanding shares of common stock of 500,000 authorized shares.

U.S. Schedules New Hearings On Gas Imports

WASHINGTON (CP) — A new round of public hearings will open before the federal power commission July 27 on a revised bid to import Canadian natural gas into the United States.

Sources close to the commission said the chances of the new application going through are a lot better than a previous attempt which was rejected by the commission last fall. Since then much of the opposition by major natural gas companies in the U.S. has withered away.

The new application involves a bid by Midwestern Gas Transmission Company of Houston, Tex., to import 204,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, tapping the prairie leg of the Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. at Emerson, Man.

Speculation on take-over bids for the Kemsley group started tihs week when shareholders were advised of "tentative negotiations which, if concluded, would be of advantage to the ordinary shareholders."

Since then the value of Kemsley shares have climbed 65 per cent.

Other bidders being mentioned, besides Thomson, include The News of the World. The Manchester Guardian says both bidders "presumably have the cash."

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trading was generally slow today on the Winnipeg grain exchange although flax recorded some activity with international export houses making modest purchases.

Flax also had reports of a small overseas business worked to the United Kingdom. Prices were fairly steady, but some were irregular.

Oats and barley trade was mainly routine. Rye was local.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat all were ⅜-cent higher than Thursday.

George I. Mad Once Again

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

It was hot in Victoria Thursday. But you didn't have to look at the thermometer to find out the mercury hovered at 80. A glance at George I. Warren would have told you the same thing.

Malone

Mr. Warren, in case you came in late, is chief constable of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. He dedicates himself to enticing tourists to come to Victoria, "the capital city."

Ian Ross, proprietor of one of the district's largest and most lush gardens, has said that nobody has done more for tourism here than George Warren. Such praise has been known to burst a few buttons on Mr. Warren's vest but it has not seriously disturbed his metabolism.

Periodically, however, people say things about Victoria which cause Mr. Warren to become so hot he pops out of his Farenheit.

For the record, Mr. Warren popped Thursday for about the 3,627th time.

The cause of the disturbance was an article in the Toronto publication, Quick Canadian Facts.

It read in part . . . "and when you arrive in Vancouver, the beautiful capital city of British Columbia . . ."

That did it. To tell George I. Warren that Vancouver is the capital city is like telling Brigitte Bardot she is flat-chested or like telling Finance Minister Fleming that James E. Coyne is the greatest authority on financing Canada ever had.

Taking quill in hand, Mr. Warren penned a hasty note to one, C. J. Harris, editor of Quick Canadian Facts.

He didn't tell Mr. Harris that he was a lunkhead. That wouldn't have been Victoria.

Instead he wrote: "For a magazine devoted entirely to Canadian facts to feature Vancouver as the capital city of B.C. is shocking.

"Victoria," he wrote, "is recognized as a little bit of Olde England and proud of it.

"Before becoming the capital city of B.C., Victoria was the capital of the Crown colony of Vancouver Island, the first such Crown colony to be established (1849) in the British Empire.

"Vancouver is located on the mainland some 80 miles distant. I thought you might be interested in Victoria and the separate continent of Vancouver Island and I am sending you some literature so that you will acquaint yourself with facts."

Since mail from the outside world hadn't reached Mr. Warren's continent at press time today's weather, based on Mr. Warren's blood pressure, had levelled off. Another dose of something like "Quick Canadian Facts" and you can be sure the reading will make the rising Dow Jones averages look sick.

A. G. Bryce, a man who sells things which kill things, did a spot of killing himself today.

He slayed a rumor which had his feed, seed and weed-killer firm, Brackman-Ker, moving out of Victoria for (ugh!) Nanaimo.

"We were founded here 82 years ago," he said. "And we are staying here."

He did say that the old, unoccupied Brackman-Ker building at Broad and Pandora is up for sale. According to reports Les Blow has covetous eyes for it.

The IWA strike is five days young but some business men say woodsmen are spending as if there is no tomorrow. One garage operator reports he has been exceptionally busy at a time he expected to be exceptionally idle.

Certainly bank clearings for the week ending Thursday reflect in part that Greater Victorians are not holding on to their shillings. Clearings last week hit $13,008,421. Same week last year they were $10,384,040.

MISSILE SHOT HITS TARGET

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—An intermediate range Jupiter missile thundered down the Atlantic missile range Thursday night in a successful flight reported to have covered 1,500 miles. The army said it landed in the predicted impact area, but did not say how big the area was.

ORCHESTRA'S EYE-VIEW of a portion of record crowd that thronged Butchart Gardens Thursday night to hear Victoria Symphony and tenor Charles Davis in first of this season's concerts. Hundreds of out-of-town visitors were among audience of around 7,000.

RICH . . . WARM . . . EFFORTLESS

Tenor Thrills 7,000 at Butchart's

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Green lawns were transformed into solid masses of rainbow hues, rivalling the flower beds, Thursday evening, when "going on 7,000" persons visited Butchart Gardens to hear the Victoria Symphony Orchestra concert and guest artist Charles Davis.

For most it was certainly "the loveliest night of the year."

A silver sliver of new moon hung over the gardens, lending the final perfection to the serenity of scented air, summer warmth and memorable music.

One of the great charms of these legend-making occasions is the opportunity they provide for families, friends and visitors to group and mingle in a relaxed, informal atmosphere. Picnic suppers had been the order of the day, hundreds arriving from mid-afternoon on.

Music, of course, was the order of the night and Hans Gruber conducting the Victoria Symphony Orchestra provided a program worthy of the setting.

The thrilling voice of tenor Charles Davis, rich, warm and effortless was the evening's highlight. There is in particular, a haunting tenderness to the way he sings love songs, whether they be arias like "Boheme's" "Thy tiny hand is frozen," or the wistful serenade, "You Are Beautiful," from "Flower Drum Song".

In the latter he was given additional inspiration by the presence of Ann-Lee Ross, wife of Butchart's owner, Ian Ross, dressed in an opulent and authentic Chinese costume. Unfortunately only a relatively small portion of the crowd got an adequate view of this colorful moment.

Mr. Davis said a charming farewell to his audience by singing, unaccompanied, the lovely "Aloha" of his native island.

Orchestral selections were Beethoven's "Egmont" Overture, Haydn's "Military" Symphony and Tschaikowsky's "Capriccio Italienne". There was a crisp vitality and polish to the playing throughout.

There will be one more concert in the gardens this season, on July 23.

BEAUTY greets beauty as these two 14-year-olds pause to admire blooms in Butchart Gardens. Vicky Osborn, left and Frances Martin were among thousands of persons, from tiny toddlers to the very elderly who, Thursday night, enjoyed the symphony program among the flowers.—Photos by Jorgen V. Svendsen.

Phil Lee's Two for the Show

BB (Worthwhile) AA (Oscar Class) B (For Rainy Days) A (Don't Miss) C (To put in time)

(BB PLUS) "THUNDER IN THE SUN" (Capitol)—Paramount's "Thunder in the Sun" is a western with a difference. Unfortunately, however, this difference is lost in the imbalance of the plot that fails to take advantage of its promised impact.

The story opens with a group of Basques from the French mountains hiring Jeff Chandler to guide them through Indian territory to California where they hope to start a wine industry with the vines they are carrying with them.

Now swashbuckling frontiersman Chandler's vice is women. Therefore it goes without saying that the target of his affections should be Susan Hayward even though she is married to middle-aged Carl Esmond. But Sue is loyal to the core and Chandler is making about as much time as a broken-down alarm clock buried in the desert.

The quaintness and difference in "Thunder in the Sun" stems from the ancient customs and ways of the Basques. Their high-pitched cries to one another are as eerie as Moon Men invading Earth. And if the plot had been devoted more to this difference and less to Chandler making passes in the prairie grasses the play would have gained much-needed stature.

BUT MORE THAN THIS the trouble develops from the action which is singularly quiet for two-thirds of the film's 81 minutes running time. Then, in the last third, it arrives all at once, splendid in its own unbelievable way. But surely it would have been better for the success of the whole if it had been more carefully dispersed over the full course.

The lag at the beginning, possibly, is the chief reason why Chandler and Miss Hayward—last year's Academy Award winner—appear so awkward in many of their scenes together. But who can blame them? They've been left too much time for their love making and to fill in the minutes they emote, smoke, grapple, sneer, leer, peer like a couple of weary wrestlers following the late, late show.

For this possibly Russell Rouse's screen play is most to blame, not to mention Mr. Rouse's own direction.

ROYAL BALLET DROPS MARGOT FROM ROSTER

LONDON (AP)—The Royal Ballet announced Thursday night it has removed Dame Margot Fonteyn from its regular staff.

She has not been fired and it's all friendly, a spokesman for the company said.

Henceforth, Miss Fonteyn, 40, will appear on the billboards not as the company's prima ballerina assoluta but as a guest.

The move ends Miss Fonteyn's 25 years of regular employment with the company, formerly called Sadler's Wells. These years made her the leading ballerina of the western world.

The company said it is intended to allow her more time for her activities abroad.

Action by Court In Labor Issues Urged by Lawyer

A leading Victoria lawyer and frequent member of conciliation boards, E. E. Pearlman, QC, Thursday called for an entirely new concept in dealing with labor-management disputes.

He strongly suggested that labor-management troubles be resolved either in the courts or by some other "competent" group and that decisions be "final and binding".

Even if the suggested procedure was not entirely satisfactory, "it would at least put an end" to the current wave of strikes and threatened strikes now crippling British Columbia, he said.

In an address to the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club, Mr. Pearlman said labor disputes were not basically different from any other type of disputes now handled in the courts.

If judges were trusted in all other matters, why not in matters pertaining to labor-management troubles? he asked.

"Surely we can improve our existing machinery!"

British Columbia cannot afford to have continuing labor trouble "year after year" which threatens the "entire economy" of the province.

"It is time for reform," he said, and such reform must stem from the demand of the public whose welfare is being jeopardized by the strikes.

Lack of Public Protest Noticed

Present problems on the labor front and resulting strikes he termed a "senseless situation".

He called present methods of attempting labor-management settlements "archaic, outmoded and costly".

While strikes affect all, the public generally seemed "unable or unwilling" to protest.

Even the unions themselves were hounded by "jurisdictional" disputes over which union should do what, he pointed out.

As a result, "featherbedding is rampant".

Mr. Pearlman termed the situation "nothing short of scandalous. It is long past time something be done."

Again, he advocated that "a body" be set up with authority to step in and settle trouble between unions themselves "within a reasonable length of time."

He pinpointed evils of picketing, pointing out that picket "pressures" on employers had forced many employers to join unions, but "it is not against the law for non-union help to be employed."

"The power of the picket line seems to be all-embracing," he said, and mentioned work stoppage on the new government house over a Vancouver quarrel.

"It surprises me" he said of workers who must suffer from this type of thing "that they haven't done anything about it."

Restraint or Disaster, Alternatives

And as a local example of public suffering, he recalled picketing of a hotel here a short time ago. Milkmen and other delivery men refused to cross the picket line; garbage men refused to cart garbage away.

The hotel was occupied largely by elderly persons.

He said "abuses of privileges" under the Labor Relations Act pointed up the necessity of some restraint "or risk economic disaster."

While advocating the new "judicial" conception of settling disputes, Mr. Pearlman said conciliation had fulfilled a useful function by providing a "cooling off" period which had saved B.C. much more trouble.

Of the contentious Trades Union Act (Bill 43) so strongly opposed by many union leaders, he said it was not "nearly so dynamic as indicated," and merely makes unions liable for breaking the law.

It's real effectiveness he went on, was in repealing the former act under which "indiscriminate picketing" was legal, with resulting damage to employers and public.

"No wonder there was some dismay when this book was closed, but not necessarily locked."

The bill merely sought to put an end to abuses, he claimed.

Resisting Strike Held 'Basic Right'

There was no moral or legal reason why a strike should not be fought, Mr. Pearlman said.

This was "a basic right".

But today, there seemed to be the misguided belief that if employees strike, the business must shut down; that strikebreakers are committing a "horrible crime" and that to combat a strike is wrong.

"It is no longer a strike involving A and B, but a strike involving you."

In labor disputes, he charged, both civil and criminal laws have been violated and both sides often had complete unrealistic approaches.

He said a well-managed and responsible union was an asset to the employer, but there existed "intolerant" employers who could not help but have union trouble by their very attitudes.

Labor-management relationship was an extension of the old master-servant set-up, he said, and "one wonders if the pendulum has swung too far".

"Is not the former servant now the master?"

Rock-Throwing Soldier Freed After 'Lecture'

A 22-year-old Work Point soldier with "an exemplary record" was put on probation when sentence for smashing $338.50 worth of plate glass windows was suspended in city police court Thursday.

Cameron Leslie Toomey pleaded guilty to two charges of causing wilful damage over $50 value, laid after he threw rocks at a Victoria West service station and Johnson Street liquor store Sunday.

Magistrate William Ostler, partly basing judgment on a probation report, put Toomey on $500 bond for six months' good behavior and ordered that he make restitution for the damage.

Police said Toomey first broke a $200 window at Bill's Texaco Service, 760 Esquimalt, walked downtown and put another rock through a window valued at $138.50 at the liquor store.

CALLED POLICE

He then called police to come and get him and waited in a taxi stand next door to the liquor store.

Magistrate Ostler said he was satisfied the first offence was spontaneous, but the next was deliberate and took place after Toomey had time for reflection.

He noted the accused had good army and civil records, but Toomey did not take advantage of the magistrate's offer to let him call character evidence.

The incidents were caused by "a combination of alcohol and self-pity," the magistrate said. "You are a man and you must behave like one . . ."

DOUBLE JOLT ON SPEED SLOWS MOTORISTS

GRAND PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) — Motorists, as they enter the long road leading to the business centre of the Grand Prairie Airport, are told the speed limit is 20 miles an hour.

A few hundred feet along the road is another sign, reading: "That's right—20 MPH."

Officials say the reminder—repeated at intervals along the road—is very successful in slowing motorists down to the limit.

CITY COUNCIL BRIEFS

Blockade Against Truck Deliveries?

Virtual blockade of all truck deliveries during afternoons in the downtown area is being threatened by the city, Ald. Arthur Dowell told city council.

He said this was the effect of an advertisement by the city engineer's department involving a proposal to close all loading zones between noon and 6 p.m.

City engineer James Garnett told council that the proposal was made by the public works committee, not his department.

Aldermen voted an expenditure of $150 to pay for erection of flags throughout the downtown area for the royal visit.

It also was announced that buses for participants and special guests at the civic reception for the Queen in Beacon Hill Park will be operated from City Hall. Object is to reduce the number of cars that will be streaming towards the ceremony site.

A public works recommendation to establish a taxi-loading zone for all companies in front of a downtown hotel was rejected after Ald. M. H. Mooney warned "we'll just have a war between the companies on our hands." He, and other aldermen, decided that taxi companies should provide their own business facilities.

Aldermen voted $3,650 to public works committee to setablish two offstreet parking lots near Fishermen's Wharf and the Victoria Machinery Depot to meet James Bay residents' complaints of crowded parking conditions in the area.

VMD workers will be charged about $2.50 a month for parking on the lots but Ald. Mooney and Mayor Percy Scurrah said they thought the committee should increase the proposed charges.

Ald. Mooney told council that it should reduce the size and number of bus stops in view of B.C. Electric's claim that its transit traffic was declining rapidly.

PE BURSARY GIFT TO QUEEN

City council Thursday established a $[illegible]50 scholarship in honor of the Queen's visit.

The annual award will run for five years and will be open to Victoria High School graduates who enter the physical education course at Victoria College.

Ald. A. I. Curtis said the choice was made because of Prince Philip's urgings [illegible] greater awareness of physical health needs and because there is no scholarship now offered in the course here.

'UP TO SAANICH'

Beaver Lake Grant Denied

Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee was told Thursday to use its own money to pull the Beaver-Elk Lake centennial project out of a financial jam.

City council refused a request by committee chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney for a special $2,000 grant to cover an anticipated over-expediture of $1,500 in construction of a dressing-rooms building at Beaver Lake.

Ald. Arthur Dowell led council in a demand that the committee make up the over-expenditure out of its own regular budget.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said the committee did a good job of developing the lakeside recreational areas "but we warned Ald. Mooney time and again that they must stay within the budget.

"I don't say it's wrong that they should want more money but they should get it from Saanich, not Victoria," he said.

Ald. Edgelow later went further and obtained council sanction for his suggestion that city manager C. C. Wyatt should recommend a new basis of sharing the committee's costs, now set at Victoria paying two-thirds and Saanich one-third.

He noted that the populations of the two were almost equal and that the parks involved were located in Saanich, pointing out that Victoria was paying almost $400,000 for parks purposes annually but Saanich was only paying "in the vicinity of $20,000."

He said more equitable sharing formula should be negotiated.

FISHING STRIKE LOOMS AS TALKS BREAK DOWN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Salmon price negotiations between British Columbia canning operators and their fishermen broke down Thursday night, only a few hours after they got started.

The fishermen, seeking higher prices on all types of salmon, later announced they would ask their members in a vote to reject the latest company offer and approve strike action.

LABS TOO HELPFUL

Pity Poor Kin

NEW WESTMINSTER—A rich uncle is always a good bet for someone needing help.

New Westminster O'Keefes aren't hollaring "uncle" just yet, however, because their favorite cousins continue to be ever-so helpful. In fact, where would the O'Keefes be without Nanaimo Labatts?

Without Labatts in the four-team Inter-City Lacrosse League, you can rest assured that O'Keefes wouldn't be riding in first place by a five-point margin.

FIVE STRAIGHT

The leaders, putting on a sparkling second-half display, tripped Nanaimo for a fifth straight time Thursday, 12-7. It marked the sixth time in seven meetings this year that New Westminster, defending Canadian champions, has come out ahead of Nanaimo.

And those six victories at Nanaimo's expense represents exactly half of New Westminster's total victories.

Ken Oddy, with four goals, and Jack Bionda, with three goals and three assists, led the O'Keefe attack. The other winning goals came from Stan Cowie, with two, Jack Byford, Bill Jobb and Jack Barclay.

Veteran Skip MacKay scored twice for Nanaimo, with the other Labatts goals coming from Spud Morelli, Gogie Stewart, Bob Shires, John Lumley and Ted Liebich.

Both goalies, Les Norman of New Westminster and Fred Fulla of Nanaimo, turned in standout performances. Norman stopped 30 shots and Fulla 25.

Top-Seeded Lady Beats Sue Butt

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Mike Green, former U.S. Davis Cup player from Miami, Fla., and Australia's Warren Woodcock won places in the semi-finals of the western open tennis tournament Thursday.

Arcaro Returns To Riding Chores

NEW YORK (AP)—Jockey Eddie Arcaro, injured when his mount fell in the Belmont Stakes, returns to the saddle today. He has been assigned four mounts at Belmont Park.

Arcaro spent almost a week in hospital following the accident, then fished for another week in eastern Ontario.

CENTURY CLUB

SOLARIUM DERBY

Wes Fulton has done his share for the crippled children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium, but he's not resting on his laurels.

WES FULTON

Wes, who in four years as a director of the Times-Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association Solarium Derby directed the contributions to the Solarium, is still selling tickets to the July 19 fishing competition.

In fact, he has sold enough tickets to become a member of the derby Century Club for the 10th year—entry in the Century Club membership, of course, comes to anyone selling 100 tickets.

One of the "regulars" at Brentwood, Wes has never had too much time to fish in this derby. The time spent organizing the big one-day derby is worth the effort, he feels, because "you won't find a better cause. I have always been interested in crippled children."

He will be happy to sell you a ticket which incidentally, gives you a chance to drive away a 1959 sedan even if you don't take a crack at the numerous fishing prizes—if you phone him at EV 3-5384.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

After compiling impressive scoreless streak of 28 consecutive innings, Victoria Babe Ruth League's two top moundsmen will team up on all-star team against best from Capital City Colt League at Royal Athletic Park Saturday. And don't bet against chances of George Hemming (left) and Bill McAdams (right) muzzling older Colt League stars! Benefit game starts at 6 p.m.—(Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

TROUBLE FOR COLTS SATURDAY?

These Scoreless Wonders Not Babes in the Woods

By GRAHAM COX

Victoria Babe Ruth League All-Stars aren't taking any chances when they face the Capital City Colt League's best in an exhibition baseball game at Royal Athletic Park Saturday.

The Babe Ruth pitchers may not talk in the players' dugout, but neither George Hemming nor Bill McAdams has to say anything on the mound.

They let their actions speak for them.

Hemming, a lefty, and McAdams, a right-handed pitcher, have been "enjoying" a running feud in the Victoria League since the beginning of the season. Throwing shutouts against each other makes up a good deal of this "enjoyment."

Each had gone 21 consecutive scoreless innings against the other until last Sunday. They then moved the count to 28 frames before Hemming took an edge with a 1-0 victory as UTC defeated McAdams and the Evening Optimists.

SIXTH VICTORY

The win ran Hemming's won-lost string for the season to 6-1. He won his seventh Thursday.

Wednesday night McAdams pitched his eighth win against a single loss.

Hemming and McAdams are perhaps two of the brightest pitching prospects to show up in Victoria's extensive minor league baseball program. Their scoreless battles have been the talk of all minor baseball men.

And the men who follow the fortunes of these two young flingers closest are convinced they're good enough to stop the older Colt League All-Stars Saturday.

BENEFIT GAME

The game, which starts at 6 p.m., will be a benefit for member leagues of the Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association.

In all, the association is the supervising body to 15 leagues and affiliates, including all Victoria district Little Leagues, Capital City Colt League, Layritz Pony League, Victoria Babe Ruth League and the Senior Amateur League.

The total population of the various leagues has been roughly estimated at between 1,900 and 2,100 players between the ages of seven and 30.

SENIORS, TOO

The exhibition will take place between games of the Senior League's split double-header.

Naval Vets and Pages tangle in the opener at 2.30 p.m. with Wakeman-Trimble and league-leading Eagles taking the field immediately following the all-star contest.

Tickets for the evening double-header are being sold by members of the various city leagues.

Proceeds realized from the night will be returned to the leagues in proportion to the number of tickets sold by their teams.

If Hemming and McAdams aren't enough to lure customers, an array of 15 door prizes may.

LEADERS BEATEN

Cellar Quarters Become Crowded

Eagles' drive to pad their Senior Amateur Baseball League lead came to a shuddering halt Friday night at Royal Athletic Park as Pages scored a 9-3 victory to snap a five-game unbeaten streak.

The win was Pages' fourth in a row and moved them out of the league cellar, into a three-way tie for second place.

Eagles blew a 3-1 fourth-inning lead in absorbing the loss as Pages tied the score in the fifth then pulled ahead with two more in the seventh and four in the ninth.

Youthful Steve Bishop was handed loss. Paul Beck, tagged for all runs in the first, was the winner.

Getz Beaten In Cup Trials

MONTREAL (CP)—Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que., won two games Thursday as trials continued for two positions on Canada's 1959 Davis Cup tennis team.

Godbout, upset Wednesday by John Bassett of Toronto, defeated Montreal's Andre Toupin, 10-8, 6-0, then disposed of Victoria's Riedar Getz, 6-4, 6-4.

Nine junior players are series here for two spots on Canada's team. Bob Bedard, of Sherbrooke, Que., and Don Fontana, of Toronto—ranked first and second—have already been named to the team.

DON'T DELAY BID . . . . . . DERBY DAY JULY 19

Rental Boats Disappearing

If you're planning to fish in the Solarium Derby July 19, but haven't made any bid for a boat, you had better rush to the nearest phone.

A survey taken Thursday showed that there are only a few rental boats available for use in Vancouver Island's biggest one-day derby.

Crafts may still be rented—if one acts quickly—at the Goldstream end, Brentwood Bay and Deep Cove areas.

A limited number of cabin cruisers, inboards and rowboats suitable for outboard motors are still available at Hall's, Creed's, Anchorage and Holder's boathouses.

Those booked up solid include Brentwood Boat Rentals, Gilbert's and Anglers' Rentals.

Best pickings appeared to be at Hall's, although the situation may have changed by noon today. They have one covered boat, three inboards and three rowboats.

Tickets will be available right up to derby day, even if rental boats may not be.

Anglers are also advised that the derby is confined strictly to Saanich Inlet. Legal waters are within an area bounded by an imaginary line projected from Moses Point to Hatch Point and Goldstream.

Refusal Stirs Tennis Tempest

USLTA Asked to Move Big Events Following Discrimination Charges

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association was peppered today with demands that it move its forthcoming Davis Cup and national championship tennis matches from the West Side Tennis Club which refused membership to the son of Dr. Ralph Bunche because he is a Negro.

Bunche, United Nations undersecretary and winner of the 1950 Nobel Peace Prize, disclosed Wednesday that club president Wilfred Burglund had told him membership is closed to both Negroes and Jews. Burglund has been unavailable to the press since Bunche's announcement.

Victor Denny, president of the USLTA is in Dublin, Ireland, at a meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation. He refused to comment and USLTA officials here said no statement could be made until after his return, expected late today or Saturday. One official said, however, "I don't know where we could move the matches."

PARTICIPATION POSSIBLE

Negro tennis star Althea Gibson and several Jewish players have participated in USLTA-sponsored matches on the club's courts in Forest Hills. Bunche said his 15-year-old son, Ralph Jr., had been taking lessons at the club from its pro, who had suggested he apply for membership.

Miss Gibson said in London today, "It seems incredible that such a thing can happen in America in our day and age. To bar a man like Dr. Bunche, who has done so much in his time for people generally, seems just plain silly."

Five U.S. Senators, one Congressman, several city officials, Jewish and Negro organizations, the New York Civil Liberties Union and at least two New York newspapers demanded that the international tennis matches be moved from the club if it does not change its discriminatory policy.

The city's commission on intergroup relations invited club officials to appear for a hearing July 21 and said USLTA officers might also be invited to attend.

NOT COVERED

Private clubs are not covered by state and city anti-discrimination laws, but Dr. Alfred J. Marrow, chairman of the city commission, said he considered it "unthinkable that major international athletic events for which the general public pays admission should be conducted in this city on the grounds of an institution which discriminates in its membership policy."

City council president Abe Stark, who is presently acting mayor, said that he believed the USLTA should transfer its matches from any club which discriminates in membership and said that if the policy is not changed he will "introduce a resolution of censure at next Tuesday's meeting of the city council."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) protested the scheduling of the matches at the Forest Hills club and was joined by four other Senators in a telegram to the USLTA demanding their transfer. The other Senators were Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) and Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.).

Rep. Ken Hechler (D-Va.), a former member of the club, expressed resentment of the club's action in the House.

Doubles Winners Rebound

If the proof of champions is their ability to bounce back when things seem darkest, then there are two sets of champions playing in the men's doubles of the Victoria hard courts tennis championships.

In two matches played Thursday, the eventual winners went down in their opening sets but rallied to win the next two.

THEY CAME BACK

Second-seeded Bill Sparling and Jack Parker dropped Ray Aldeguer and Jack Cosar, 7-9, 6-4 and 8-6, while top-ranked Bob Peskett and Ron Mitchell defeated Ted Smythe and Doc Miller, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Top-seeded Diana Lawrence defeated junior star Heather Bridgman, 6-1, 7-5, to reach the finals of the ladies' singles.

Elroy Face is still flyin' high—and Willie Mays is flyin' low again.

Take those facts and toss in a brilliant 11-inning relief performance by Los Angeles' Roger Craig and you have the big reasons teams in the National League first division feel like college kids in a telephone booth.

San Francisco is the new "top dog" with a 47-35 record followed by Los Angeles a half game "down," Milwaukee third, one full game behind, and Pittsburgh fourth, only 3½ games from the leader.

The latest shuffle occurred Thursday night when the Giants spoiled Fred Hutchinson's debut with a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds and the Dodgers knocked the Braves from first to third place with a 4-3 win in 13 innings. The Pirates, coming from behind for the 27th time this season, edged Chicago Cubs, 4-3, in 10 innings.

TRIBE TOPPLED

Chicago White Sox moved to within a game of first place in the American League when they defeated the front-running Cleveland Indians, 4-3, and the Boston Red Sox walloped the New York Yankees, 14-3, to drop the world champions back into fourth place.

There also were three twi-night doubleheaders—St. Louis downing Philadelphia, 6-2, after an 11-0 defeat, in the National League, and Baltimore beating Washington, 8-0 and 5-0, and Kansas City defeating Detroit, 5-0 and 4-0, in the American League.

Face, Pittsburgh's sensational relief ace, tied a 49-year-old club record when he received credit for his 13th straight victory of the season. The 155-pound right-hander, near goat of Tuesday's all-star game, yielded a score-tying single to Sam Taylor in the Cubs' ninth but became the winner when pinch-hitter Harry Bright singled home the decisive run in the 10th.

SIX SHORT

Face's 13-game winning streak is six short of the N.L. and major league mark set by Rube Marquard in 1912 and his two-year string of 18 straight victories also is six shy of the mark set by Carl Hubbell in 1936-37.

Mays, hero of the all-star game, opened the ninth inning of a 2-2 tie game with a single and then took off like a guy on a motorcycle. San Francisco's "golden boy" promptly stole second on relief pitcher Tom Acker, of the Reds, and then scored on Daryl Spencer's infield hit. Willie Kirkland homered and Sam Jones picked up his 11th win for the Giants.

Wally Moon doubled and Rip Repulski singled to give the Dodgers the run that tagged Milwaukee's Warren Spahn with his ninth loss and dumped the Braves into third place. Roger Craig, taking over in the third inning after Danny McDevitt was rocketed for three runs and five hits, shut out the Braves on three hits for the last 11 innings to win his fourth straight game. It was the fourth straight time this season that Spahn has lost to the Dodgers.

Sailors Drifting To Higher Ground

Farmers took their lumps for the third time this season, losing in section one of the Senior Open Softball League to surging Navy, 9-3, Thursday night.

The win moved Navy into a three-way tie for the league's second spot, only two and a half games behind Farmers.

Roy Jones and Amos Happy blasted out homers for the winners in the fourth inning with Bill Simpson adding another later as Maycocks failed to score in only the fifth inning.

FISHING ROUNDUP

Anglers Find Action Slow

If you're thinking of taking a cruise around the Victoria waterfront after salmon this weekend, it will probably be just that—a nice cruise.

But as for the salmon, that's another matter.

For the majority of fishermen, while they may have enjoyed boating in the fine weather, have not scored heavily in the past few days.

The odd big spring has livened things up occasionally, however, for those who happened to be in the right place at the right time.

Col. J. C. Allen of the PPCLI, for instance, landed a 27½-pound beauty off Albert Head Tuesday.

BIGGEST OF YEAR

And Ernie Atherton brought in the biggest spring reported on the lower end of Vancouver Island so far this year from Pedder Bay—a 40-pounder taken Monday.

Earlier in the weekend, George Read had hauled in a 29½-pound spring from the same area.

There were also reports of good-sized fish coming in from Weir's Beach, and Fred Petersen caught a 26¼-pounder off Sooke Thursday.

But, in the main, anglers were still awaiting the seasonal run of coho and humpies.

SMALL COHO

At Saanich Inlet things are remaining fairly steady, although Holder's Boathouse reports a fair run of four and five-pound coho inhabiting Deep Cove at the present time.

As in less sheltered waters, though, the odd bigger spring is coming in at Brentwood and the Goldstream end but the average angler is not enjoying spectacular success.

Further north, fishing is picking up a bit although it still could not be called good until you get to Parksville.

Cowichan Bay is now boasting a few springs, perhaps the advance guard of the main run due any day, week or month now.

NOT MANY

A few 20-pounds-plus salmon are being taken, but there are still large empty gaps in the angler's creel in most cases.

French Creek Fishing Camp reports that there are "lots of bluebacks, some coho, and quite a good batch of springs." A 23-pounder was taken Wednesday and there were several springs in the 9-10-pound class.

The best report came from Painter's Lodge in Campbell River.

The resort stated that limits of coho averaging six pounds are being taken frequently and that springs up to 28 pounds are grabbing Spar X, Luckie Louie and Wallace Highliner plugs as well as various spoons.

And anyone who goes up there, of course, would not want to miss the trout fishing. Lower Campbell and Buttle Lakes are presently excellent, with limit catches being the rule rather than the exception.

THE EXPERTS ARE COMING!

The men who spend most of their spare time making sure other anglers get a chance to fish in salmon derbies try their own luck at Saanich Inlet Sunday.

The Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association will stage its annual directors' derby, starting at 6 a.m., for all officials of the VSIAA and Chinook Club.

Members of the press and radio have also been invited to fish for the Ernie Silburn Memorial Trophy, won last year by Hank Vondette of the RCN.

Donaldson To Defend Peace Cup

David Donaldson of Burnside, will be on hand to defend his claim to the Peace Cup, Vancouver Island singles championship, when play opens at Victoria Lawn Bowling Club Saturday, starting at 9.30 a.m.

CINCINNATI (CP) — Fred Hutchinson, who succeeded Mayo Smith as manager of Cincinnati Redlegs, would be well advised to stay away from Jim Bunning's house.

Bunning, a pitcher for Detroit Tigers, lives in nearby Fort Thomas, Ky. Last year he rented his home during the season to Birdie Tebbetts, then manager of the Reds.

Late in the season Tebetts quit under fire of the fans and after the team had fallen into the second division.

This year, Bunning rented his home to Smith. Mayo was fired Wednesday. He also had been booed by fans because the Reds are deep in the second division.

DRUCE RETURNING?

Evcoe Juggling May Pack Punch

Willie Hamilton has turned to juggling in an effort to find a much-needed scoring spark for his Victoria Evcoes.

The Scottish-born coach will unveil a juggled lineup Saturday when his team meets Vancouver Continentals in a Pacific Coast Soccer League game at Macdonald Park, starting at 2.30 p.m.

But it doesn't mean he's satisfied.

One of his first acts in practice this week was to switch centre-forward Bill Abbott with left-wing Cedric Robb, and right-wing Antol Major with hustling Henry Vanderhorst, who had been restricted to a utility role. Joe Robbins will play fullback in place of the injured Ron Jenkins.

"It's not that the boys aren't trying, or that I'm unhappy with them," Hamilton says. "It's just that the team needs to score some goals."

A man with more up his sleeve than his arm, Hamilton has other plans in mind. They could include the return of former city all-star centre forward Tom Druce.

"Druce is big and strong and very hard to move off course when he's driving for the ball," said team vice-president Eddie Viggers today. "If he fits in, he could very well be just what the team needs."

If Druce decides to come out of retirement, he won't get into action for at least a week.

One other possibility considered by Hamilton, is the acquisition of three unnamed former Old Country performers now residing in Victoria. The trio has not been identified.

Ratepayers Challenge School Loan Bylaw

(From Duncan Bureau)

Action will be taken by a ratepayers' committee of the unorganized area of Cowichan School District 65 to challenge a $1,155,292 school loan bylaw approved Thursday by a vote of 1,020 for, 555 against.

It also will seek establishment of a new school district to include only the rural portion of what is now District 65, a mixed urban and rural unit.

The voting showed 64 per cent in favor of a building program that will see the construction of two junior high and three elementary schools.

Early returns showed rural polling stations casting a majority of "no" ballots on the school board's plan. Votes from the Duncan City Hall polling station, which included both urban and rural areas, cast 621 for and 202 ballots against.

FEW VOTED

Only 20 per cent of those eligible to vote went to the polls.

Trustee Wilf Peck said work could be completed by next January on one and two-room additions to six elementary schools, including Bayview, Bench, Crofton, Tansor, Koksilah and New Somenos.

New elementary schools will be built at Gibbons-Menzies Road, Maple Bay and Quamichan.

Two new junior high schools, to cost $261,000 each, should be ready for use by September, 1960, said Trustee George Whittaker, building chairman.

The committee will challenge the bylaw on the grounds that a pamphlet authorized by the school board was distributed by teachers through school students, and not sent to ratepayers.

George E. Bonner, spokesman for the group, which is not in favor of junior high schools, said the protest will be sent to the Lieutenant-Governor through the department of education. There is precedence in the courts, he said, of a decision being reversed because ratepayers had not been sufficiently informed.

He said the fact that the bylaw carried in only two of the nine polling stations Thursday was sufficient reason to go ahead with action to form a new school district.

KINSMEN TASK NEARLY DONE

Stand for Pioneer Park

(From Duncan Bureau)

Pioneer Park at Duncan will have a grandstand, now under construction, as a result of five years of planning by Duncan Kinsmen Club.

The grandstand to date has cost the club $4,100, but a total of $7,000 has been spent by the club at the park, including work on grounds, backstop, dugouts and bases.

Original plan called for a roof, dressing room, plumbing, and coffee shop, which will be added at a later date.

Club financed the development through the holding of five car bingoes. The first bingo of this year earned $2,500, but the second was unsuccessful, leaving the club short of funds for further development at the park.

Grandstand is expected to be completed and ready for use within a week.

ISLAND CONTRACT LET FOR SALT WAREHOUSE

NANAIMO (CP)—Stauffer Chemical Co. of California announced Thursday a contract has been let for construction of a salt warehouse here to supply Vancouver Island pulp and paper mills.

The depot will be used as a base for supplying sodium sulphate by truck to mills at Duncan Bay, Port Alberni, Harmac and Crofton in competition with Saskatchewan suppliers, the company said. It will be at the downtown assembly wharf.

No date for start of construction has been set and no cost estimate was announced. The plant will employ about half a dozen men and use local trucking companies for transportation.

Teacher Named For 'Retarded' School Class

LADYSMITH—Mrs. J. C. F. Blackham has been appointed teacher for a special class of retarded children now being organized in this school district.

The appointment was made by a steering committee formed at the organization of a chapter of the Retarded Children's Association. Mrs. G. Buck is chairman of the committee, which includes Alex. Smith, school board chairman, and Mrs. A. B. Carpentier, secretary of the committee.

QUALICUM ASSOCIATION

Access Roads Policy Asked

QUALICUM BEACH (CP)—clear statement of policy regarding access roads to the Trans-Canada Highway has been requested of the provincial government by the Social Credit Constituency Association of Comox.

A resolution, to be forwarded to the highway department, also protested the granting of forest management licences or timber leases without due regard for the rights of the general public.

Various boards of trade and ratepayers' Association in the north island area have endorsed the resolution.

This week the village commission in Ladysmith voted to send a letter of protest to the government for denying a request by an oil company for an access to the highway from the proposed service station.

Commissioners said that a number of service stations in Duncan and Nanaimo have been allowed access roads.

SOLUTION MONDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Carol Channing'll satirize Broadway's current "musical tragedies" — musical comedies without comedy—in her new night club act George Burns is staging . . . and in one number she'll become "Switchblade Bess."

Carol tipped me off to her spoof of the "West Side Story" type of show recently when I interviewed her on the Frank Blair-Don Russell NBC radio program.

"We're rehearsing here at the Tropicana," Carol said the other day from Las Vegas. "We break it in in the Louisville Amphitheatre July 15 — gonna make damn fools of ourselves before 5,000 people!"

Tennessee Williams should love it. After the opening song, "This Is a Damn Fine Funeral," comes a ballad, "Love Is a Sickness." Switchblade Bess does a Charleston finally in the happy death house. Just a barrel of laughs.

Marlene Dietrich'll be glad to know that Carol will give up her popular satire of Grandma "Legs" Dietrich.

From all the hullabaloo about Paulette Goddard going to Hollywood without clothes —due to shipping her wardrobe to Switzerland — you'd think she wore some.

Paulette made movies in towels before Brigitte Bardot. Directors were always finding new ways for her to take a bath. She had that well-scrubbed look . . . only she had it all over. While making a TV film in Hollywood, she'll borrow clothes from her mother, who lives there, and borrowed them from her. Paulette needs clothes like Khrushchev needs an enemy.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Stephen Calvert, age 12, of Spokane, Wash., for his question:

How does electricity flow through wires?

We learned to use electric power before we understood what it is. In fact there are still a lot of questions about electricity which we cannot answer. At first it was thought to be something, perhaps a fluid, which flows through the wires. Some people still call it juice.

Then Dr. Robert Andrews Millikan discovered that electricity is caused by electrons, little atomic particles of negative electricity. Millikan found that the number of these particles to a pound is one, followed by 35 zeros. For this delicate weighing job, the great American physicist was awarded the Nobel Prize in 1923.

We know now that our electric current is caused by moving electrons in a circuit of copper wire. Other metals may also be used to carry current but copper is the cheapest and one of the best. It is a good conductor of electricity because of the nature of the copper atom.

Every normal atom has a nucleus and a family of electrons. The nucleus corresponds with the sun in our Solar System and the electrons correspond with the planets. In a normal atom, the number of positively charged proton particles in the nucleus is equal to the negatively charged electrons in orbit. Hydrogen, smallest of the atoms, has but one proton and one electron. The copper atom has 29 of each.

In the Solar System, each planet has an orbit all to itself. In the atom, several electrons may share an orbit but there are strict rules which say just how many electrons can share an orbit, or shell. The inner shell can carry only two electrons. Any more than this must go into a second shell which can hold eight electrons. The third shell is complete with 18 electrons.

'Lone Rangers' Do Job

The copper atom, with 29 electrons, has three complete shells and one electron in a fourth shell. The more complete a shell, the stronger it is and the lone ranger in the fourth shell of the copper atom is in a very weak position. It often gets lost and maybe joins another copper atom. Voltage, the jolt which makes current, causes countless numbers of these lone ranger electrons to break free. It is their energy, hopping from one atom to another which causes the current.

In direct current or D.C., the teeming electrons move in one direction only. In alternating current or A.C., they jog back and forth. Each jog per second is a cycle. In a 60-cycle current, the electrons in the copper wire circuit move back and forth 60 times each second. This frantic movement causes energy, the energy we can clip on with a switch to light a lamp, turn a fan or heat a stove.

Herter Wrestles Berlin Riddle

Doubts and Misgivings Cloud Reopening of Big 4 Parley

WASHINGTON (CP) — State Secretary Christian Herter appears to be approaching the new phase of East-West talks at Geneva with some doubts, misgivings and an inner conflict of views as to the sincerity of Russian negotiations.

In an apparent about-face, he told reporters Thursday he believes the Russians are not trying to use the Geneva platform for propaganda purposes and are trying sincerely to find a solution to the Berlin issue.

This conflicted with his statement June 23 when he told a radio and television audience that the Russians gave no indication of being interested in genuine negotiation and had engaged "in a good deal of propaganda and some threats".

UNITED FRONT

He said also at his first major press conference since he succeeded the late John Foster Dulles last April that the Allies had presented a united front in negotiations with Russia and hoped this unity would continue when the new round of talks open Monday.

Herter saw some possibility —though he is not optimistic— of reaching an agreement with the Russians on Berlin.

The prospects, he indicated, will depend on what answers the Russians give to a pair of questions from the Allies.

1. Whether the Russians are saying that Allied rights in Berlin will expire at the end of an 18-month deadline, or whether they will continue even though no East-West agreement has been reached by then, and

2. Whether the amount of time allowed for negotiations on the German question is itself a negotiable point as far as the Russians are concerned.

DEADLINE OR NOT?

Since the Geneva talks recessed June 20, he said, the Russians have left unclear whether they are insisting on a deadline to push the Allies out of West Berlin.

He also made these other points:

1. A visit to the United States by Soviet Premier Khrushchev is certainly worth thinking about.

2. The United States may find it more expedient and practical to advocate an atomic test ban applying just to the atmosphere than the over-all ban it now is trying to negotiate with the Russians.

New Air Rules On Royal Flights

LONDON (Reuters) — The ministry of transport and civil aviation today announced strict new air rules covering flights by members of the Royal Family.

The new rules set up traffic-free "purple airways" from August 1 for flights taken by the Queen, Prince Philip, the Queen Mother, Prince Charles, Princess Anne and Princess Margaret.

No special procedures are planned for flights by other members of the Royal Family, though they may be adopted for visits by other reigning sovereigns or foreign dignitaries.

The restrictions will be applied to successive sectors of a route rather than for the whole period of the flight.

No plane will be permitted within the air space of a "purple airway" from 15 minutes before a royal aircraft is scheduled to enter it until 30 minutes after it is scheduled to leave.

When a royal flight leaves an established controlled air space its route will become a temporary airway and be subjected to "purple airway" restrictions.

But there are to be no special procedures for royal flights by helicopter, though the routes will be published and pilots instructed to keep a sharp lookout.

POLICE GO 'ROUND FAMILY CIRCLE

Jack Went 'Thataway' Sam, Bill in Pokey

Police Sergeant Robert Dowd and Detective Norman O'Hare went to their home Wednesday to arrest Jack, wanted on a charge of breaking and entering.

They found two men.

"This one guy says, 'you'd better go ahead and give up, Jack'," said Dowd. "We took him in."

At the station the man said he wasn't Jack. He was William and his fingerprints would prove it.

"We tore back out there but when we got there the real Jack Henley was gone," Dowd said. They found Sam, however, and arrested him.

William and Sam were held for investigation of aiding and abetting the escape of a fugitive.

Police still are looking for Jack.

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters) —A Canadian company has been formed to reopen the Thames Goldfields in New Zealand and it plans to spend $500,000 immediately in processing deposits of tailings from abandoned mines and on diamond drilling and geophysical surveying.

The company is South Pacific Mines, Ltd., which was recently registered in Vancouver as a public company.

Million Men In Crippling Italy Strike

ROME (AP)—Approximately 1,000,000 Italian metal workers began a five-day strike today to back up demands for fringe benefits.

All Italy's steel mills, metal construction companies, shipyards and major factories were affected except the giant Fiat auto factory in Turin, where independent unions did not strike.

A spokesman for the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor said the industrialists had agreed to an increase of 13 to 18 per cent in wages, "but they turned down all our requests for fringe benefits".

Italy's other major strike, the 100-ship maritime walkout, went into its 32nd day and the loss to the Italian economy was estimated at more than $320,000,000.

'DO-NOTHING'

Politics Ruling CLC, Seamen Say

MONTREAL (CP)—The Seafarers' International Union Thursday called the Canadian Labor Congress a "do-nothing" union and urged sailors to get out of the CLC.

The SIU's publication, The Canadian Sailor, accused the CLC of being a political faction.

"It depends on your political line as to whether or not you are entitled to protection," the publication said.

The 10,000-member SIU was recently suspended by the CLC for raiding.

"The SIU found it was no longer a good idea for the sailors to be in the CLC . . . the decision was not hard to make," said The Canadian Sailor.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me the length of the longest runway in the world? A. W.

A. Longest is one of eight miles at Edwards Field on the bed of Rogers Dry Lake at Muroc, Cal. This was to be extended to 22 miles, with Rogers Lake connected to the adjacent Rosamond Dry Lake.

Q. Would you kindly tell me how many wild canaries there are in B.C.? B.M.

A. The "canaries" you see are actually goldfinches that come into high color in June and July, and are of a dull undistinguished color at other periods of the year so are not noticed. There is not the slightest indication of their numbers on record, although they are common.

BALLET SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

Victoria Girls Dance Before Queen at Banff

By PETE LOUDON
Times Staff Reporter

BANFF — Three Victoria girls, all 16, danced for the Queen this morning at Banff School of Fine Arts.

Each of the three is here as a scholarship winner in ballet. Beaming on them from the auditorium stage was Victoria instructress, Wynne Shaw, here for a teacher's course.

Julie held the door to admit the royal couple to the classroom, then joined Louise for a round of pirouette, saute, jete, plie and demi-pointe, in leotards and pink tights.

The girls form part of a 75-member, six-week class, drawn from all parts of Canada and the U.S. Average age is 17. There are six boy students.

The ballet students differ in one sense from other students in drama, opera, painting and the speech arts, to name a few.

"These are the ones who eat the most," explained a teacher.

FROM BALCONY

The Queen and Prince Philip watched from a glassed balcony, then came down to the floor.

'Revivalism' Triggered By World Crisis

A "revivalism" in North American churches has been triggered by the collapse of security says a guest dean who is taking over Christ Church Cathedral for two months.

Dean Cox took a holiday cruise to B.C. aboard the luxury liner Ss Oronsay.

"One main reason for renewed interest in the church," he said, "is the breakdown of our securities, and the lack of them."

EFFECT OF AGE

"I won't say it's a good reason, but it's the effect of the age we live in."

The start of the "collapse" was the first atomic bomb, he said.

The dean, who comes from Virginia, said his Honolulu congregation represents seven cultures — English, American, Scots, Hawaiian, Japanese, Chinese and Filippino.

"There's no segregation whatever in Honolulu," he said, "and there's a great deal of intermarriage, too. It works out very well provided they stay in Honolulu. But in the rest of the U.S. they can run into trouble."

OLDEST IN U.S.

Dean Cox's cathedral is the oldest in the U.S. and was originally built around 1850 when Queen Victoria sent the first bishop to the island.

Main reason for the two deans' swap for the summer is "to develop understanding between branches of the Anglican union."

Dean Cox learned about Victoria from winter tourists in Honolulu, then met Dean Whitlow and arranged the exchange. He will stay at Christ Church until Sept. 2.

FOR ROYAL OCCASION

No Interference By Union In Navy Band Performance

The band of HMCS Naden will be in attendance at Beacon Hill Park Friday, July 17, when the Queen presents colors to two army units, following a civic reception, but it will not play "God Save the Queen."

As Rear-Admiral Rayner, Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, explains:

"This is an army show and we don't want to cross the army's bows. The Queen will get the Royal Salute on the parade ground. The navy band will provide background music only."

As to reports that the Musicians' Union had refused permission to the blue-clad bandsmen to play "The Queen," or anything else for that matter, Vincent Butler, an executive of the Victoria local of the union is emphatic in denial.

"That can be disposed of in three points," he said today.

1. "The Musicians Union has no jurisdiction over any of the tri-services musicians on any military, governmental or patriotic occasion.

2. "Even if we had such jurisdiction we would not be so stupid as to exercise it, and—

3. "If ever a band is required to play 'The Queen,' the Musicians' Union will supply one free of charge."

NO GUARANTEE BUT CHANCES BRIGHT

Victoria Likely Sunny for Queen

The 71-year-old Victoria weather books say chances are good that pleasant weather will prevail during the Queen's three-day visit here next week.

Weatherman William Mackie today worked out the odds for warm, sunny days July 16, 17 and 18 on the basis of past experience and came up with the happy conclusion:

"It looks good."

The records show that never has the sun failed to shine for at least one hour July 17 and 18 in the last seven decades. Chances of at least an hour's sun July 16 are 96 per cent.

For five hours or more, the chances are 82 per cent, 93 per cent and 91 per cent respectively for Thursday, Friday and Saturday next week.

The jackpot—10 hours of sun or more—has a 69 per cent chance July 16 and 76 per cent for both days following.

In the past 71 years it has rained only 10, eight and nine times respectively, putting the odds at better than four to one against a damp day.

Temperature ranges also have been favorable in the past, with averages of 69 degrees for July 16 and 17, and 70 degrees for July 18.

So far, Victoria temperatures have been running slightly under the July 60-degree normal and rainfall has totalled one-quarter of an inch, half way to the "heavy" classification.

"Certainly the chances favor pleasant days with no rain for the royal tour," Mr. Mackie said. But, he won't guarantee it.

CPR Ends Vancouver Winter Ferry Link

Indirect Mainland Service

A Canadian Pacific Railway decision will cut off direct ferry service between Victoria and the B.C. mainland for seven months this winter.

An announcement Thursday night by CPR Pacific region vice-president J. N. Fraine said the once-daily Princess Marguerite sailing will not be resumed when the winter season starts Sept. 25.

This means there will be no direct ferry link between the B.C. capital and the provincial mainland until May at the earliest when the government's ferries will be in operation.

Two provincial ferries are under construction now. Indirect links with Vancouver will be available over the CPR's year-round Nanaimo ferry service and Washington State Ferries' Sidney-Anacortes run.

The WSF service will inaugurate a seven-days-a week bus-ship connection with Seattle for the first time Sept. 13, maintaining it throughout the winter.

The CPR's present summer service to Victoria will continue until the Sept. 25 cut-off.

HEAVY LOSSES

Mr. Fraine blamed heavy losses for the decision, citing a $48,000 loss in three months of operating the one-daily winter service, instituted earlier this year as a result of a storm of protests over a previous decision to cancel the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle service outright.

Mayor Percy Scurrah today sharply criticized the CPR's announcement.

"They don't give a hoot for the south end of Vancouver Island. They've written us off," was Mayor Scurrah's bitter comment.

NOT SURPRISED

He said he was not surprised by the CPR decision but was "disturbed and disappointed" that the company had refused to resume the winter service until the beginning of 1960 when the provincial government's two ferries go into operation.

Asked if he would launch another protest, he said:

They've made up their minds and I don't think a protest in council is worth a hoot to them.

"What many people don't realize is that the company has and is continuing to make millions of dollars out of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway here and the sale of timber lands given to them," he said.

LOSSES OFFSET

He said these profits should offset the losses on the ferries.

"If they were logical, they'd cancel their trans-continental train service too because it doesn't pay either," he said.

President G. Conway Parrott said the Chamber of Commerce will investigate the reasons for the cancellation.

"What we're really concerned with is whether there will be some assurance by the CPR that the summer service will be maintained because of the city's tourist trade."

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau manager George I. Warren said the city needs "continuous service" and the CPR should operate the ferries until the government service opens.

Mr. Fraine said their was no need to continue the direct ferry service because the Nanaimo service was handling traffic satisfactorily.

BIG BOMBERS SHOW HERE SATURDAY

Two of Britain's new Victory bombers, among the largest planes to have exceeded the speed of sound, will roar over Victoria Saturday afternoon around 3.30.

The giant aircraft whose chief visual characteristic is their crescent wings flew to Vancouver from England for the air show on the mainland Saturday and Sunday and the flight here is in tribute to Victoria as British Columbia's capital.

On the designing board for years, the present Mark Two model which will be seen—and heard—here, went into service with the RAF last February.

Details of the plane's performance are top secret but it has been said that the craft carries a powerful "nuclear deterrent." Its fuel load alone is heavier than the mightiest Second World War bomber, fully bombed up.

The Victory is powered by four Rolls Royce turbo-jets each with a thrust of 17,250 pounds.

More than 100 sub-contractors were engaged in its production which entailed the assembling of 40,000 different parts including 40 miles of cable in its electronic system.

The two bombers, followed by an RAF Comet Mark Two transport will fly over Comox before coming south to Victoria; they are not expected to remain in this vicinity for long.

TRAFFIC FINES

David Flowers, 960 Southgate, inadequate insurance, $25.

Personal Income In B.C. Shrinks

British Columbians no longer are at the top of the Canadian totem pole in personal incomes. Ontario has taken the lead.

Personal income in B.C., averaged among every man, woman and child, fell to $1,633 last year from $1,681 in 1957, the bureau of statistics reported today. It was the only province to register a decline, though there was a drop in the Yukon and Northwest Territories as well.

Meanwhile, personal income for each person in Ontario rose to $1,696 last year from $1,658.

The bureau report gave no specific reason for the B.C. decline, but apparently it was due in large measure to a 10 per cent fall in forestry production across Canada.

The figures include wages and salaries, government payments and farm and personal earnings, and interest, dividends and rents.

Personal incomes for each person in the other provinces, with 1957 figures in brackets:

Alberta, $1,518 ($1,415); Manitoba, $1,425 ($1,306); Saskatchewan, $1,245 ($1,146); Quebec, $1,231 ($1,202); Yukon and Northwest Territories, $1,091 ($1,258); Nova Scotia, $1,072 ($1,029); New Brunswick, $919 ($897); Prince Edward Island, $860 ($788); Newfoundland, $808 ($779).

POP BOTTLE BOOMERANGS WITH 'BANG'

It bounced back in city police court today.

He was fined $20 by Magistrate William Ostler.

Accused said he was aiming for a vacant lot, missed, and the bottle hit the street.

The magistrate said even if the bottle had hit the vacant lot, it was utter thoughtlessness to throw it because of children running around barefoot at this time of year.

SHOPPING GUIDE

By PENNY SAVER

Mmmm! Red currant jelly! Latest word from local produce stores is that red currants and black currants are ripe and ready. Ones I saw are selling for $1.25 a 4-pound box. Now's the time—so tie on that apron, bring out the jars and equipment and away you go.

Another new crop is that of delicious broad beans. Locally grown, they'll add a new flavor to a weekend dinner. Two pounds are 29 cents.

Fresh spriggy mint can make a marvellous taste highlight to a salad. I found some green and crisp—at 10 cents a bunch.

Sweet Santa Rosa plums are 30 cents a pound. Deep red Bing cherries—put some in your next picnic lunch—are 49 cents a pound (from local orchards).

In the meat world, don't forget lamb. It's at its best right now, from Salt Spring Island. Bake a delicious shoulder roast, for that special summer dinner. Roasts are 43 cents a pound.

Speaking of picnics, you don't need to fuss over sandwiches next time. All you need is a good bowl full of salad (maybe two kinds—potato and shredded cabbage) AND a big plate of fried chicken wings. Meaty wings, fried to a perfect brown, and in just the right spices. A dozen costs just 25 cents.

Salad and chicken wings make a tasty and economical lunch menu, too.

Be Polite—But Firm!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about telephone soliciting? I get so annoyed when I must run to the telephone in the midst of bathing the baby. Or am awakened from a much-needed nap to hear someone tell of a special offer the cleaners or photographers are having. I have always given a polite reply, but have been tempted to tell them off. If I removed the receiver from the hook, I'd risk throwing my line out of order. Then, too, I might miss an important call. I have considered complaining to the telephone company. Is there a solution? MRS. S.

DEAR MRS. S.: The next time you are annoyed in this way, tell the party calling you that you did not appreciate being disturbed. When merchants realize that they are defeating their purpose and building ill will, they will discontinue this annoying practice.

DEAR ABBY: This fellow I have been going steady with for three months won't take NO for an answer. He is always wanting to make out. I told him from the start that I have to be careful of my reputation. He said he would not talk. But he has told me about some other girls he made out with. What do you do with a boy who tries to get a girl to break down? JANEY

DEAR JANEY: Break up!

DEAR ABBY: Will you please give me your opinion of how a housewife should dress around the house? It is nothing for me to come home and find my wife in the kitchen, cooking supper, wearing a backless, strapless and almost frontless dress that she wore dancing the previous night. Or a lace sheath with chiffon streamers and a rhinestone choker and long earrings. I'd like to find my wife looking like a real housewife, not like a burlesque queen. I can't tell her—will you? TALKED OUT

* * *

DEAR TALKED: If you have told her—she "knows" what she should wear around the house, but doesn't care. Surprise her with some cute cotton cottage aprons or housedresses. If this fails, just thank heavens she is in the kitchen cooking when you come home.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband is the athletic type which I like. He plays basketball, baseball and football on the average of three times a week during each season. I wouldn't mind if he'd come right home afterwards. But if his team loses, all the boys go out to drown their sorrows. If they win, they have a few beers to celebrate. Most of the guys are married, but they all act like they're single. I used to go with my husband but with a small baby it isn't easy now. Any suggestions? ATHLETE'S WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: It's not "easy" to leave a baby—but sometimes necessary. Get a friend, a relative or a sitter and join your husband. He'll soon get out of the habit of a beer-bust after each game.

CONFIDENTIAL TO COLLEGE GRAD: You've been through college, but has college been through you? There is a lot of knowledge that isn't learned in college.

On Etiquette

"THANK YOU" NOTES:

My daughter recently had a house guest here for a weekend, who sent me a set of attractive place mats. I feel that I should write and thank her, but have been told that I shouldn't because the friend would then have to acknowledge my letter with a thank you note. And on it would go, with letters going back and forth. What is proper?

Louise

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

Your recent guest would never be obligated to send you a thank you note for your thank you! It would be ridiculous for both of you to continue writing back and forth, for there would be no end. Even the thought of it is tiresome! I can't understand why anyone would refrain from saying thank you for a gift. If sincere, the words "thank you" are two of the nicest words in any language!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

With Thin Arms, Legs, A Weight Gain Is Best

Q. "I am 17 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weigh 114 pounds. My legs and arms are very thin. Is there any exercise that will help me gain on my arms and legs?"

A. Exercise can help but what will be even better is a gain in weight. You are quite underweight. You should increase your poundage for the good of your health as well as your figure. The simplest exercise for increasing the calf is this one. Stand tall. Lift your heels as high off the floor as you can. Lower heels to the floor. Do this slowly, about 50 times morning and night.

Q. "What are the measurements for a perfect figure?"

A. These vary with the height and bone structure. It is impossible for everyone to achieve the same measurements, so no definite standard of perfection can be set up. As a general rule there should not be more than two inches difference between the bust and the hips and the waist should be 10 inches smaller than the hips. The calf should be five or six inches smaller than the thigh and the ankle about five inches smaller than the calf.

Remember, that this is a general standerd and should simply give you a little idea of what to strive for.

Q. "I am 20 years old. My face still has pimples occasionally. This was much worse when I was younger (it wasn't acne), but I figure they should have cleared up by now for good. Should I see a skin specialist or am I worrying over nothing?"

A. Unless you have many pimples I would not think it necessary to see a dermatologist. Sometimes these haven't disappeared by the age of 20. Give yourself a little more time. Of course this condition could come from infection of some sort, such as diseased teeth, tonsils or adenoids.

Q. "I need your advice. Please tell me if I am overweight. I am 25 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall and weigh 130 pounds. My bust measures 36 inches, waist 25 and hips 37 inches. I feel so large. My family says that I am not fat. If I am not, why do I feel this way?"

A. You are certainly not overweight. Perhaps you feel that way because you are setting your goal at movie star proportions. Many young women do this. You must remember that the camera adds about 10 pounds so that screen stars must be slimmer than would be most becoming to you.

Richard's Party

The party was organized and supported by friends of Richard, young and old, in Cadboro Bay. Adjoining garden at the home of Mrs. W. Cameron was used for afternoon tea, which was convened by Mrs. C. Halliday, assisted by Mrs. B. Clarke and Mrs. G. Leith. Various stalls were tended by children of the neighborhood assisted by mothers and fathers who arranged games, and looked after home cooking, soft drinks, plant stall and tombolas.

White cotton lace with inserts of layered nylon net created the bride's waltz-length, princess gown. Lily-point sleeves and a finger-tip veil held by a band of pleated tulle completed the bridal ensemble. A bouquet of red roses and white carnations was carried.

All attendants wore identical pink nylon dresses with satin cummerbunds and large back bows, white feather bandeaux and white accessories. BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

South was tempted to go to seven no-trump after his partner showed two aces but he was a little worried about his fourth club and decided that seven hearts would be a better contract.

Opening lead—♦ Q

When he saw the dummy he decided to play the hand as if it were no-trump and proceeded to run off his high cards in the hope that either clubs would break, someone would discard long clubs or that a squeeze would develop.

None of that happened and when the smoke of battle had cleared away South was down one and the rubber was still going on.

South should have made the hand taking advantage of the trump suit. The winning play would be to draw two rounds of trumps only and then go after the clubs. Since West held three trumps and four clubs South would have been able to trump his fourth club in dummy.

This play would have risked nothing. He could not lose the hand unless the player with the short clubs held the long trump and in that case he could not have made the hand anyway.

T.V. with Lee

Don Jordan Defends Welterweight Crown Against Denny Moyer at 7

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

DESPERATE—The flock of summer re-runs is making us as desperate as a drowning man clutching at straws. The only difference is we clutch the channel knob and dial ourselves into some of the darndest shows.

TV TEE-HEES

"It's our new baseball-TV dinner. It's got hot dogs, soda pop, peanuts . . ."

For instance on Monday night we watched two jungle shows back to back, White Hunter and African Patrol. And were they real! About two-thirds of the way through the second we started shivering wildly, uncontrolably. Called in the doc and sure enough we had malaria.

To make matters worse my wife has become allergic to me. Every Saturday she looks at Divorce Court in the hopes of digging up grounds for separation. So far no luck. Seems as though I've got to be running around with another woman and she knows that's impossible. Not only haven't I the money but no other woman would have me.

Best reason, however, is that we don't own a Jaguar sports car and that old Jag seems to cause more broken up homes than you can shake an intake manifold at. Nor do I make sheep's eyes at the boss' daughter, seemingly another guaranteed home-wrecker. Not only is she just 12 but she views me with intense suspicion ever since I listed a Disneyland program incorrectly.

But isn't Divorce Court a clever show? Do you notice how the legal interruptions always jibe with the commercials? Truly it is downright miraculous.

AFTER WATCHING the late W. C. Fields and Mae West cavort about in the 1940 comedy "My Little Chickadee" last Saturday night I began to realize the strides the movie-makers had made since those days. I also realized how painfully naive we were. If that was funny what would we have thought about something like today's "Some Like It Hot!" Never mind, in those days you had to get a clerk to help you out of the store with $5 worth of groceries.

Enjoy the Rifleman. But one day they're going to make star Chuck Connors carry that rifle of his in a scabbard tied to his leg so his draw against the baddies will be on more even terms. The day they do that the show will be over then we'll all be watching Peck's Bad Girl or Channel 9's Contemporary Stage.

Did you see Trackdown's Robert Culp play it straight with wife Nancy Ash Wednesday night in Accused's drama? One more like that and maybe his old home on the range won't look so enticing. The boy is good.

That was a dream fight between France's Alphonse Halimi and Mexico's Jose Becerra for the bantamweight championship of the world, Wednesday night. Still can't understand, however, why Halimi, with his superior boxing skill, wasn't able to keep away from the ropes. That's where he lost his crown.

But I must away so I'll be in plenty of time tonight for This Is Alice, Compass Rose, and all the other programs I've been missing all winter.

107 PARTS, TIRES AND ACCESSORIES

POSITIVE CURE FOR BALDNESS

Take a look at those smooth tires of yours, those bald spots are signs of danger to yourself and others. But if you bring them along to us before it's too late, we can give your tires the GUARANTEED GOODYEAR TIRE (FACTORY APPROVED) RETREAD. But don't wait till they are worn to the canvas or structurally damaged. If in doubt bring them to us. We will not waste your time or money.

IT'S TRUE!

The cost of a retread is ½ the cost of a new tire. We are proud to say we have the finest factory approved retreading equipment in Western Canada.

FEARS OF AN EARLY GRAVE

Author's Orgy Flakes Out in Jail

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Irish playwright Brendan Behan ended a wild three-day binge in a police cell this afternoon.

A cryptic police charge graphically summed up the situation: "Found drunk in a public place."

Police said he will be brought into court Saturday.

His spree was a sad but noisy non-stop performance of public and private guzzling, singing, shouting, dancing and cursing that his alarmed wife said is sending him to an early grave.

Behan drinks just about anything and everything.

FEAR FOR HIS LIFE

Some friends feared that, like the Welsh poet—genius Dylan Thomas, the highly-gifted Behan seemed to be reeling toward tragedy by the hospitality of friends and acquaintances. Only Thursday his wife Beatrice pleaded over the telephone from Dublin:

"Please stop risking your life when you are so ill."

His father-in-law, artist Cecil French Salkfield said:

"Brendan is a very sick man. His complaint is not all due to alcohol. Even the slightest drop of the stuff makes him very ill. To buy him a drink is a form of manslaughter."

Behan's reaction to this was to lurch out of the London apartment of Irish sculptor Desmond MacNamara and bellow into the dawn:

"I'll die if I don't get a drink."

Recalling this, Mrs. MacNamara said:

Unshaven, unpressed and tieless, Behan shuffled off toward downtown London.

Behan—author of two plays, "The Hostage" and "The Quare Fellow"—arrived in London Wednesday from Ireland where he had been drying out in a hospital.

BEGAN AGAIN

At London airport he began sopping up drinks and shouting. With friends he breezed into downtown London and marched on the theatre where "The Hostage" is playing. He demanded tickets — and got them.

His eyes almost the size of bottle bottoms, he roared at the actors from his seat and finally got on the stage and did an Irish jig.

Such a bizarre, unrestrained performance from such a gifted writer landed him on the front pages.

This seemed to goad him on—but then the friends who'd guffawed at first became alarmed.

Youth Held in Jail

Preliminary hearing for a 17-year-old youth charged with a $2,000 burglary June 23 was adjourned to Tuesday after a three-hour session in Saanich police court Thursday.

Stanley John Bullivant, 3521 Douglas, has elected trial by judge and jury on a charge of breaking, entering and theft of mechanics' tools and equipment from Parkdale Service Station, 3415 Douglas.

A trial within a trial, revolving around three written statements in the hands of police, took most of the time Thursday and will resume next week.

Meanwhile, on application of counsel, Joseph McKenna, Magistrate William Ostler set bail for Bullivant at $1,500.

At present, Bullivant is serving 21 days in jail in default of payment of a $75 fine for causing a public mischief, which was imposed Tuesday. Mr. McKenna asked for time to pay at Thursday's session, but was given time to reconsider the application.

Magistrate Ostler noted for Mr. McKenna's benefit that in the event Bullivant was unable to pay the fine he would still be faced with the 21-day default.

Queen Has Hoot 'n Holler Calgary 'Howdy'

By PETE LOUDON

LOUDON

CALGARY—The Queen flew 2,000 miles Thursday into a real western adventure, complete with daredevil cowboys, rough - riding redskins and an outdoor barbeque which lasted long after dark.

An estimated 400,000 persons welcomed the Queen and the Prince after they whistled in from Fort William aboard an RCAF Comet jet.

Calgary's traditional informality was evident throughout. There was no guard to inspect, no majestic pause for the booming of cannon.

Instead, a veteran's color party dipped flags and a pipe band shrieked a brief royal salute. There was a short handshaking ceremony climaxed by presentation of a white stetson to Prince Philip by Mayor Don McKay. Then the fun began.

A choir of SPEBQSA members (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America) gave out with Tumbling Tumbleweeds and Ragtime Cowboy Joe. Another group burst into a square dance.

Calgary has the largest area of any city from Toronto west. There seemed to be crowds on every inch of it—stetsoned, in levis and high-topped boots, and some even in bathing suits.

First stop was at Jubilee Auditorium where hundreds of Guides had been waiting 2½ hours in a broiling sun to cheer themselves hoarse.

The Royal cavalcade drew increasing crowds on the way to the stampede grounds, a tour of the reconstructed Fort Calgary and the teepee village of the Blackfeet, Stony and Sarcee Indian bands.

There were 20,000 hooting and hollering in the grandstand as the Royal guests entered the gates.

And what a show. The Queen and Prince Philip were oblivious of the wave of dust kicked up as the chuckwagon races got under way.

Chuchwagons are four-horse work wagons used by ranchers for feeding range crews at round-up. They must weigh 1,350 pounds and carry a stove and other weighty equipment. As the race starts and the drivers give their rearing horses their heads, two cowboys must tumble a fly tent into the wagon while another loads the stove, sometimes running after the wagon with the stove in his arms. Then they mount to pursue their chuckwagon.

In one heat there can be 32 horses. It's a fight all the way, with a total prize of $23,680 to the winners.

The royal couple were on edge of their seats. They met champions of other years, in bronc-busting, roping and other cowboy skills before departing, 75 minutes later than scheduled, as the voices of the 20,000 joined in "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

The mood changed as the party arrived for the barbecue at the vast estate of Judge M. M. Porter. Here the elite of society, 250 strong, waited as range cooks pitchforked 500 pounds of prime beef from glowing open pit grills, tossed salads and baked the cowman's staple—beans.

As the sun set on the foothills to the west, a massed pipe band marched and countermarched over the rolling field and mounted redcoats appeared in the distance, cantering in and out of the fringe of woods.

Later, the Queen and Prince Philip retired to the royal train which is carrying them today into B.C. and the 880-mile trip to the coast.

The host of kids on bikes and motor-scooters who pedalled alongside the procession through town . . . the gifts from the city, mother-and-daughter charm bracelets for the Queen and Princess Anne and matching gold belt buckles

Plans were unfolded in city council today for construction of a modern eight-storey, $1,800,000 City Hall at Cathedral Hill.

Dominion Construction Co. Ltd., a large Vancouver firm that has specialized in erecting multi-million-dollar lease-purchase buildings, offered the deal to the city.

It involves:

Erection by the company of the building on the city's chosen site at Blanshard and Burdett, opposite the B.C. Power Commission;

Purchase of the building to be made by the city under one of several possible arrangements which would defer heavy committment of capital;

Reservation of four stories, totalling 72,000 square feet of floor space, for civic offices, two stories for school board offices, two floors for subleasing, probably to a government agency.

The plans put the city's aspirations for a new civic hall into practical terms for the first time. Aldermen attending the special council meeting were shown a $1,500 model of the modern structure planned by Dominion Construction designers after week's-long consultations with architect Roderick Clack of the city engineer's department.

Decision to enter the deal would result in a chain reaction of developments transforming downtown Victoria.

It would:

Free the present City Hall, public market and old main fire hall properties for sale as a package for a huge commercial development—a long-held dream—and raise close to $500,000 for a payment on the City Hall;

TERRIFIC IMPETUS

Inject a terrific impetus into the proposed development of the Cathedral Hill civic centre project which is to see early construction of a new court house by the provincial government.

Make it possible for the school board to vacate overcrowded Craigdarroch Castle, freeing the historic building for development as a museum and tourist attraction.

Queen Begins B.C. Tour

(See Page 17)

From Times News Services

FIELD, B.C.—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip entered British Columbia this afternoon for the far western part of their national tour just like a pair of touring motorists.

They travelled by car from Banff, Alta., to Lake Louise and then to Field over the newly-reconstructed section of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Ahead of them is an eight-day journey through B.C. which will be interrupted by a two-and-a-half-day holiday at secluded Pennask Lake.

TREAT FOR CHILDREN

The train arrived at 10 a.m. MST, exactly on time. The royal couple had spent the night aboard it in Calgary and made the 80-mile run to Banff in less than two hours.

The hatless prince wore a tan suit.

After the official greetings the Queen and the Prince walked directly to their open convertible for a drive through Banff.

As they got into the car Prince Philip started to sit down but the Queen motioned him to rise. As they left the station the royal couple were standing up in the car so they could be seen easily.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

God, forgive us our ulcers. Forgive us, God, our want of peace, our lack of trust, our feverish and unstable minds. There is One Whose word stilled the wind and the sea, Whose presence can quiet the turbulent heart of man. May we have the constant experience of His nearness, and may we find the peace that He can give. In Him is the peace of strength. In Him is found the quiet fullness of life; in Jesus' name. Amen.

T. G. NORRIS
. . . Mr. Justice now

EX-VICTORIAN GETS POST

2 New Judges Named for B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of two new justices to the Supreme Court of British Columbia was announced today by Justice Minister Fulton.

The new appointments give the supreme court this lineup: Seven from Vancouver, four from Vancouver Island and three from the interior of the province—a total of 14 judges.

Mr. Justice Norris, a native of Victoria, is senior partner in a Vancouver law firm and one of the province's most prominent lawyers. A decorated veteran of the First World War, he served in the last war as senior Canadian legal officer overseas and left active service with the rank of colonel.

He is a former member of the B.C. council of the Canadian Bar Association and was for many years treasurer of the Law Society of B.C.

FULTON'S FIRM

The justice department announcement said he has long been known as one of the leading practitioners in the British Columbia Interior. He has appeared extensively before all the courts of the province and has acted as Crown prosecutor in numerous occasions as well as defence counsel in a number of major criminal cases. He is a past president of the Yale Bar Association.

Mr. Justice Verchere served overseas in the last war with the 23rd Armored Regiment, ending his war career as a lieutenant-colonel.

Ironworkers Ordered Arrested

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice A. M. Manson today ordered the arrest of seven ironworkers who neither turned up for work nor appeared before him in British Columbia Supreme Court as ordered.

The men are part of a group of 18 Mr. Justice Manson Thursday ordered to return to work on the strike-bound $23,000,000 Second Narrows Bridge across Vancouver harbor.

He ordered the men to either report for work at 8 a.m. or appear in court at 10 a.m.

He said today their absence in court constituted contempt, ordered their arrest and detention until they appear before him Monday.

CANADIANS TO BUILD 214 NEW JET FIGHTERS

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will order 214 F-104G supersonic fighter planes from a Canadian manufacturer, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley said today.

This was the first time that the minister has given the number of aircraft it will buy to equip eight of the 12 RCAF squadrons in Europe.

EVERYTHING TIED UP BY ONE FINGER

Mrs. Minter's Mad Fling

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Olga Minter's washing machine, a button and Mrs. Minter's finger tied up 15 firemen, two policemen, an ambulance crew and a doctor for two hours Thursday.

A button lodged in the washer's drain pipe. Mrs. Minter, 30, stuck her finger into the pipe to try to dislodge the button.

The finger wouldn't come out.

She sat on the floor beside the machine and tugged. The finger stayed stuck.

The telephone began ringing. Mrs. Minter tried to reach the telephone by dragging the washer along with her. This hurt her finger so much she had to stop.

Water leaking from the machine spread a puddle about her, soaking her backside. And then her three-week-old baby began howling for his dinner.

SIZES IT UP

At this point a neighbor fortunately walked in, sized up the situation and made an emergency telephone call.

The firemen, the police and the ambulance all arrived at the same time.

"I've never felt so ridiculous in my whole life as when all those men walked in," said Mrs. Minter.

While her rescuers began their tug-of-war with the washer, a huge crowd assembled outside. This tied up traffic for blocks around.

In desperation, the doctor was about to have Mrs. Minter—washing machine and all—taken to hospital. Then "plop." The finger gave and the day was saved.

Iraq Battles Flare

Fear of Clash Speeds Pickets to City Plant

Violence was averted today when striking IWA men threw extra pickets on their line at the Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. Ltd. plant to stop an expected movement of "hot" material.

When word reached the picket lines today that a contractor might visit the plant to pick up material, an extra 15 men were rushed to the site to reinforce the 20 men already on duty for the striking International Woodworkers of America.

According to reports, office personnel were inviting bystanders to come into the retail store, while pickets were exhorting them to stay away.

The contractor did not appear, and at press time all was quiet at the plant, at 2614 Bridge Street.

C. J. Madigan, second vice-president of Victoria Local 1-118, IWA, blamed the company for inciting trouble.

"We have a legal picket here and will try to maintain it," he said. "About 100 men are employed here and if there is trouble we can get more pickets.

"This is the only place in town where we are having trouble," he said.

Company officials, however, said the union had been trying to stop customers from entering the store on legitimate business.

The Bridge Street plant, in addition to being office headquarters for the millwork plant, is a retail outlet handling all kinds of builders' hardware, paint, and other hardware items in a steady trade with the general public.

"There is nothing illegal about a customer entering our shop," a company spokesman said.

No Government Action In Sight

There is no immediate prospect of the government taking part in negotiations between coast timber operators and 27,000 striking woodworkers, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said today.

"The parties are squared off for a fight, and neither side has asked for government intercession," he said today.

Only some 2,200 woodworkers voted against the strike in last month's government-supervised vote on the wage issues between lumber operators and woodworkers, Mr. Wicks said.

Disclosing details of the vote, the minister said the IWA lists 27,829 members.

Of these a total of 22,832 cast ballots and 20,448 favored a strike while 2,200 voted against. There were some spoiled ballots.

A total of 203 IWA bargaining units took part in the vote and 191 favored a strike while 12 were against.

Premier Bennett said Thursday in Vancouver the government will increase spending to help overcome the blow to the province's economy created by the strike.

At the same time he said in an interview the government is "very anxious" to bring both sides in the dispute together.

"We won't withdraw into a shell," he said. "B.C. is in a good financial position and we intend to step up more contracts to keep the economy good."

He did not elaborate.

It has been estimated that the strike against 123 coast operators which entered its fifth day today is costing the economy between $1,000,000 and $3,500,000 a day.

The premier said the em-

PUB VIOLENCE DISTURBS SIU

VANCOUVER (CP)—Members of the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) have been told by their officers to stay clear of violence, even if it means staying out of beer parlors.

Norm Cunningham, SIU port agent here, said in a statement today the union condemns the brawlings in public places of the last few days.

(See Page 2)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Another union may become involved in the complicated Northland Navigation Company dispute.

The Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) announced in a statement today that James Hoffa, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, has assured the SIU of support.

The National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC) now is on strike against Northland and in a dispute with the SIU which claims jurisdiction over Northland engineers.

The International Warehousemen's and Longshoremen's Union (CLC) has refused to cross engineer picket lines and for a while SIU men were unloading and loading Northland ships.

The ships now are tied up because deck officers refuse to sail without N.A.M.E. engineers.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Steels, Pipelines, Banks Pace Upswing

Steels, pipelines and banks were the leaders as industrials paced the Toronto stock market to a moderate advance today in light trading.

Industrials, western oils and base metals were all up. Golds were down but price changes were few.

Demand for an assortment of selected issues pepped up an otherwise slow and irregular market at New York. Gains of about a point were made by U.S. Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Ford, Chrysler and Johns-Mansville.

AT TORONTO Noranda was down ⅜ at 52⅛ but most other senior base metals were higher. International Nickel gained ¾ at 96½ while Hudson Bay was up ¼ at 52¼.

Seniors were the leaders in western oils. Home B added ⅜ at 16⅝ and Calgary and Edmonton was up ¼ at 26¼. Bailey Selburn was a 35-cent winner at $8.35.

AT NEW YORK Canadian Pacific and Walker Gooderham gained ⅛ each, Aluminium Ltd. ⅜, and International Nickel 1¼. Distillers Seagrams lost ¼, Dome Mines ⅜ and McIntyre Porcupine 1¾.

On the American stock exchange Canadian Marconi gained ⅛. Eureka and Preston East Dome each lost a fraction.

AT MONTREAL prices were generally firmer with most changes ranging to around a point in moderate trading today on the stock exchange.

AT LONDON the market was generally satisfactory today.

AT VANCOUVER the market was moderately active with an upward trend in mines. Canada Collieries moved 2,300 at $8.50 and Con. Potash sold 7,100 at 64c. Beaver Lodge traded 1,200 at 21c and Pacific Nickel traded 16,000 at 59c. Silver Standard sold 7,100 at 38c and Peace River Petroleum, 5,900 at 55c.

Taylor Pearson has 35 branches in Alberta and British Columbia and are wholesalers of motor car products, domestic appliances and sporting goods. They also have interests in radio and television broadcasting in Calgary and Lethbridge.

The broadcasting assets of the Taylor firm will likely be sold to a new company in which the Booker group will have a minority interest.

On April 18, 1958, Taylor Pearson reported 319,478 outstanding shares of common stock of 500,000 authorized shares.

U.S. Schedules New Hearings On Gas Imports

WASHINGTON (CP) — A new round of public hearings will open before the federal power commission July 27 on a revised bid to import Canadian natural gas into the United States.

Sources close to the commission said the chances of the new application going through are a lot better than a previous attempt which was rejected by the commission last fall. Since then much of the opposition by major natural gas companies in the U.S. has withered away.

The new application involves a bid by Midwestern Gas Transmission Company of Houston, Tex., to import 204,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, tapping the prairie leg of the Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. at Emerson, Man.

LONDON (CP) — Canadian publisher Roy Thomson is being named by financial sources as a possible bidder for the Kemsley group of newspapers, largest provincial multi-paper organization in Britain.

Speculation on take-over bids for the Kemsley group started tihs week when shareholders were advised of "tentative negotiations which, if concluded, would be of advantage to the ordinary shareholders."

Since then the value of Kemsley shares have climbed 65 per cent.

Other bidders being mentioned, besides Thomson, include The News of the World. The Manchester Guardian says both bidders "presumably have the cash."

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me the length of the longest runway in the world? A. W.

A. Longest is one of eight miles at Edwards Field on the bed of Rogers Dry Lake at Muroc, Cal. This was to be extended to 22 miles, with Rogers Lake connected to the adjacent Rosamond Dry Lake.

Q. Would you kindly tell me how many wild canaries there are in B.C.? B.M.

A. The "canaries" you see are actually goldfinches that come into high color in June and July, and are of a dull undistinguished color at other periods of the year so are not noticed. There is not the slightest indication of their numbers on record, although they are common.

BALLET SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

Victoria Girls Dance Before Queen at Banff

By PETE LOUDON
Times Staff Reporter

BANFF — Three Victoria girls, all 16, danced for the Queen this morning at Banff School of Fine Arts.

They are: Julie Bamfield, 899 Transit Road; Dianne Miller, Amroth Drive, and Louise Roberts, 6000 Lockhaven.

Each of the three is here as a scholarship winner in ballet. Beaming on them from the auditorium stage was Victoria instructress, Wynne Shaw, here for a teacher's course.

Julie held the door to admit the royal couple to the classroom, then joined Louise for a round of pirouette, saute, jete, plie and demi-pointe, in leotards and pink tights.

The girls form part of a 75-member, six-week class, drawn from all parts of Canada and the U.S. Average age is 17. There are six boy students.

The ballet students differ in one sense from other students in drama, opera, painting and the speech arts, to name a few.

"These are the ones who eat the most," explained a teacher.

FROM BALCONY

The Queen and Prince Philip watched from a glassed balcony, then came down to the floor.

Gwennyth Lloyd, head of ballet division and founder of Royal Winnipeg Ballet, was presented.

'Revivalism' Triggered By World Crisis

A "revivalism" in North American churches has been triggered by the collapse of security says a guest Dean who is taking over Christ Church Cathedral for two months.

"One main reason for renewed interest in the church," he said, "is the breakdown of our securities, and the lack of them."

EFFECT OF AGE

"I won't say it's a good reason, but it's the effect of the age we live in."

The start of the "collapse" was the first atomic bomb, he said.

The Dean, who comes from Virginia, said his Honolulu congregation represents seven cultures — English, American, Scots, Hawaiian, Japanese, Chinese and Filippino.

"There's no segregation whatever in Honolulu," he said, "and there's a great deal of intermarriage, too. It works out very well provided they stay in Honolulu. But in the rest of the U.S. they can run into trouble."

OLDEST IN U.S.

Dean Cox's cathedral is the oldest in the U.S. and was originally built around 1850 when Queen Victoria sent the first bishop to the island.

Main reason for the two deans' swap for the summer is "to develop understanding between branches of the Anglican union."

Dean Cox learned about Victoria from winter tourists in Honolulu, then met Dean Whitlow and arranged the exchange. He will stay at Christ Church until Sept. 2.

FOR ROYAL OCCASION

No Interference By Union In Navy Band Performance

The band of HMCS Naden will be in attendance at Beacon Hill Park Friday, July 17, when the Queen presents colors to two army units, following a civic reception, but it will not play "God Save the Queen."

As Rear-Admiral Rayner, Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, explains:

"This is an army show and we don't want to cross the army's bows. The Queen will get the Royal Salute on the parade ground. The navy band will provide background music only."

As to reports that the Musicians' Union had refused permission to the blue-clad bandsmen to play 'The Queen," or anything else for that mattter, Vincent Butler, an executive of the Victoria local of the union is emphatic in denial.

"That can be disposed of in three points," he said today.

1. "The Musicians Union has no jurisdiction over any of the tri-services musicians on any military, governmental or patriotic occasion.

2. "Even if we had such jurisdiction we would not be so stupid as to exercise it, and—

3. "If ever a band is required to play 'The Queen,' the Musicians' Union will supply one free of charge."

NO GUARANTEE BUT CHANCES BRIGHT

Victoria Likely Sunny for Queen

The 71-year-old Victoria weather books say chances are good that pleasant weather will prevail during the Queen's three-day visit here next week.

Weatherman William, Mackie today worked out the odds for warm, sunny days July 16, 17 and 18 on the basis of past experience and came up with the happy conclusion:

"It looks good."

The records show that never has the sun failed to shine for at least one hour July 17 and 18 in the last seven decades. Chances of at least an hour's sun July 16 are 96 per cent.

For five hours or more, the chances are 82 per cent, 93 per cent and 91 per cent respectively for Thursday, Friday and Saturday next week.

The jackpot—10 hours of sun or more—has a 69 per cent chance July 16 and 76 per cent for both days following.

In the past 71 years it has rained only 10, eight and nine times respectively, putting the odds at better than four to one against a damp day.

Temperature ranges also have been favorable in the past, with averages of 69 degrees for July 16 and 17, and 70 degrees for July 18.

So far, Victoria temperatures have been running slightly under the July 60-degree normal and rainfall has totalled one-quarter of an inch, half way to the "heavy" classification.

"Certainly the chances favor pleasant days with no rain for the royal tour," Mr. Mackie said. But, he won't guarantee it.

CPR Ends Vancouver Winter Ferry Link

Indirect Mainland Service

A Canadian Pacific Railway decision will cut off direct ferry service between Victoria and the B.C. mainland for seven months this winter.

An announcement Thursday night by CPR Pacific region vice-president J. N. Fraine said the once-daily Princess Marguerite sailing will not be resumed when the winter season starts Sept. 26.

This means there will be no direct ferry link between the B.C. capital and the provincial mainland until May at the earliest when the government's ferries will be in operation.

Two provincial ferries are under construction now. Indirect links with Vancouver will be available over the CPR's year-round Nanaimo ferry service and Washington State Ferries' Sidney-Anacortes run.

The WSF service will inaugurate a seven-days-a week bus-ship connection with Seattle for the first time Sept. 13, maintaining it throughout the winter.

The CPR's present summer service to Victoria will continue until the Sept. 25 cut-off.

HEAVY LOSSES

Mr. Fraine blamed heavy losses for the decision, citing a $48,000 loss in three months of operating the one-daily winter service, instituted earlier this year as a result of a storm of protests over a previous decision to cancel the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle service outright.

Mayor Percy Scurrah today sharply criticized the CPR's announcement.

"They don't give a hoot for the south end of Vancouver Island. They've written us off," was Mayor Scurrah's bitter comment.

NOT SURPRISED

He said he was not surprised by the CPR decision but was "disturbed and disappointed" that the company had refused to resume the winter service until the beginning of 1960 when the provincial government's two ferries go into operation.

Asked if he would launch another protest, he said:

They've made up their minds and I don't think a protest in council is worth a hoot to them.

"What many people don't realize is that the company has and is continuing to make millions of dollars out of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway here and the sale of timberlands given to them," he said.

LOSSES OFFSET

He said these profits should offset the losses on the ferries.

"If they were logical, they'd cancel their trans-continental train service too because it doesn't pay either," he said.

President G. Conway Parrott said the Chamber of Commerce will investigate the reasons for the cancellation.

"What we're really concerned with is whether there will be some assurance by the CPR that the summer service will be maintained because of the city's tourist trade."

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau manager George I. Warren said the city needs "continuous service" and the CPR should operate the ferries until the government service opens.

Mr. Fraine said their was no need to continue the direct ferry service because the Nanaimo service was handling traffic satisfactorily.

BIG BOMBERS SHOW HERE SATURDAY

Two of Britain's new Victory bombers, among the largest planes to have exceeded the speed of sound, will roar over Victoria Saturday afternoon around 3.30.

The giant aircraft whose chief visual characteristic is their crescent wings flew to Vancouver from England for the air show on the mainland Saturday and Sunday and the flight here is in tribute to Victoria as British Columbia's capital.

On the designing board for years, the present Mark Two model which will be seen—and heard—here, went into service with the RAF last February.

Details of the plane's performance are top secret but it has been said that the craft carries a powerful "nuclear deterrent." Its fuel load alone is heavier than the mightiest Second World War bomber, fully bombed-up.

More than 100 sub-contractors were engaged in its production which entailed the assembling of 40,000 different parts including 40 miles of cable in its electronic system.

The two bombers, followed by an RAF Comet Mark Two transport will fly over Comox before coming south to Victoria; they are not expected to remain in this vicinity for long.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

David Flowers, 960 Southgate, inadequate insurance, $25.

Per Sietrang Johansen, 344 Cook, no licence plates, $10.

Personal Income In B.C. Shrinks

British Columbians no longer are at the top of the Canadian totem pole in personal incomes. Ontario has taken the lead.

Personal income in B.C., averaged among every man, woman and child, fell to $1,633 last year from $1,681 in 1957, the bureau of statistics reported today. It was the only province to register a decline, though there was a drop in the Yukon and Northwest Territories as well.

Meanwhile, personal income for each person in Ontario rose to $1,696 last year from $1,658.

The bureau report gave no specific reason for the B.C. decline, but apparently it was due in large measure to a 10 per cent fall in forestry production across Canada.

The figures include wages and salaries, government payments and farm and personal earnings, and interest, dividends and rents.

Personal incomes for each person in the other provinces, with 1957 figures in brackets: Alberta, $1,518 ($1,415); Manitoba, $1,425 ($1,306); Saskatchewan, $1,245 ($1,146); Quebec, $1,231 ($1,202); Yukon and Northwest Territories, $1,091 ($1,258); Nova Scotia, $1,072 ($1,029); New Brunswick, $919 ($897); Prince Edward Island, $860 ($788); Newfoundland, $808 ($779).

POP BOTTLE BOOMERANGS WITH 'BANG'

It bounced back in city police court today.

He was fined $20 by Magistrate William Ostler.

Accused said he was aiming for a vacant lot, missed, and the bottle hit the street.

The magistrate said even if the bottle had hit the vacant lot, it was utter thoughtlessness to throw it because of children running around barefoot at this time of year.

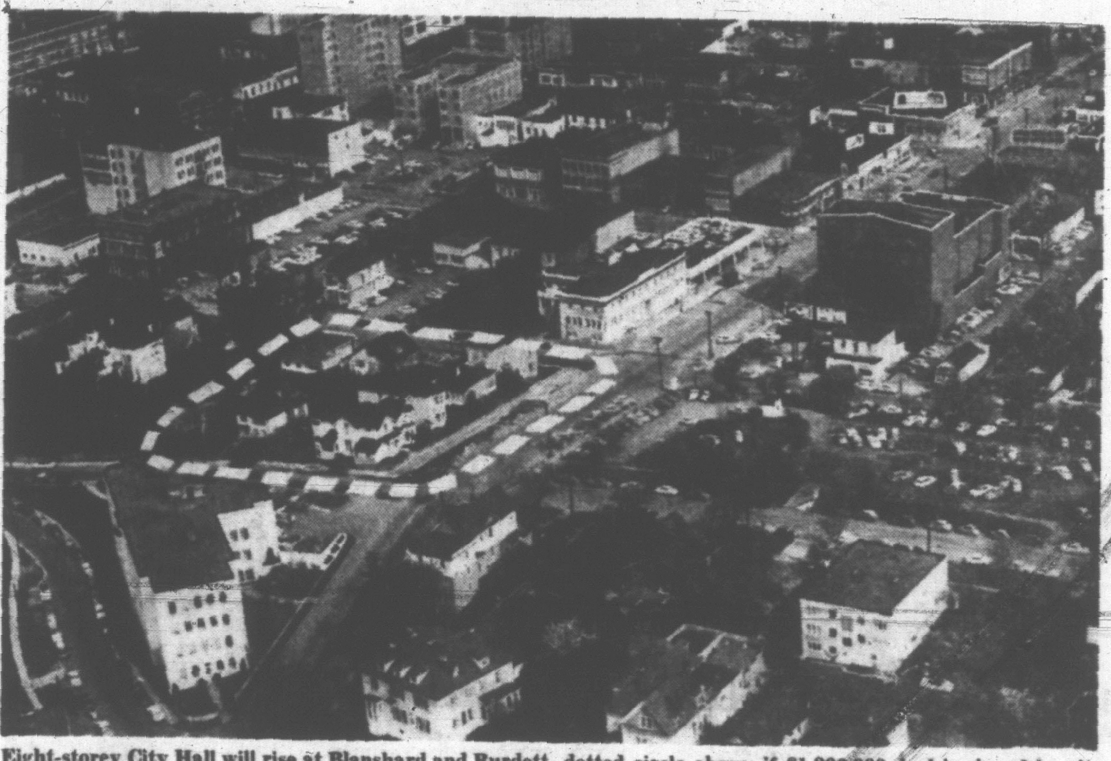
PAY LATER DEAL OFFERED FOR NEW CITY HALL



Eight-storey City Hall will rise at Blanshard and Burdett, dotted circle above, if $1,800,000 deal is signed by city.

$1,800,000 Plan Before Council

By JOHN MIKA

Plans were unfolded in city council today for construction of a modern nine-storey, $1,800,000 City Hall at Cathedral Hill.

Dominion Construction Co. Ltd., a large Vancouver firm that has specialized in erecting multi-million-dollar lease-purchase buildings, offered the deal to the city.

It involves:

Erection by the company of the building on the city's chosen site at Blanshard and Burdett opposite the B.C. Power Commission;

Purchase of the building to be made by the city under one of several possible arrangements which would defer heavy committment of capital;

The project could be ready for occupancy by December, 1960, the company said.

It asked for Council's decision by August 21.

Reservation of four stories, totalling 72,000 square feet of floor space, for civic offices, two stories for school board offices, two floors for subleasing, probably to a government agency.

The design of the building includes a "high-rise structure set on a raised plaza . . . to permit a magnificent view east towards the Olympic Mountains and only slightly less impressive views in other directions."

The eighth floor will contain the mayor's and other executive offices with a circular council chamber rising from the eighth floor through the ninth floor, making it a two-storey chamber.

The general appearance of the model is similar to the glass-walled B.C. Electric buildings here and in Vancouver, with a metal "solar screen" shading the interior.

The plans put the city's aspirations for a new civic hall into practical terms for the first time. Aldermen attending the special council meeting were shown a $1,500 model of the modern structure planned by Dominion Construction designers after weeks-long consultations with architect Roderick Clack of the city engineer's department.

Decision to enter the deal would result in a chain reaction of developments transforming downtown Victoria.

It would:

Free the present City Hall, public market and old main fire hall properties for sale as a package for a huge commercial development—a long-held dream—and raise close to $500,000 for a payment on the proposed City Hall;

TERRIFIC IMPETUS

Inject a terrific impetus into the proposed development of the Cathedral Hill civic centre project which is to see early construction of a new court house by the provincial government.

Make it possible for the school board to vacate overcrowded Craigdarroch Castle, freeing the historic building for development as a museum and tourist attraction.

A number of methods of financing the purchase are open to the city. One would be

2 New Judges Named for B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of two new justices to the Supreme Court of British Columbia was announced today by Justice Minister Fulton.

They are T. G. Norris, 65, of Vancouver, and David Verchere, 53, of Kamloops.

The appointments fill two vacancies created by legislation passed at the present session of Parliament.

The new appointments give the supreme court this lineup: Seven from Vancouver, four from Vancouver Island and three from the interior of the province—a total of 14 judges.

Mr. Justice Norris, a native of Victoria, is senior partner in a Vancouver law firm and one of the province's most prominent lawyers. A decorated veteran of the First World War, he served in the last war as senior Canadian legal officer overseas and left active service with the rank of colonel.

He is a former member of the B.C. council of the Canadian Bar Association and was for many years treasurer of the Law Society of B.C.

FULTON'S FIRM

Mr. Justice Verchere, born in Ayr, Ont., is a partner in the Kamloops law firm formerly headed by the justice minister. Mr. Fulton left the firm when he joined the cabinet two years ago.

The justice department announcement said he has long been known as one of the leading practitioners in the British Columbia Interior. He has appeared extensively before all the courts of the province and has acted as Crown prosecutor on numerous occasions as well as defence counsel in a number of major criminal cases. He is a past president of the Yale Bar Association.

Fear of Clash Speeds Pickets to City Plant

Violence was averted today when striking IWA men threw extra pickets on their line at the Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. Ltd. plant to stop an expected movement of "hot" material.

When word reached the picket lines today that a contractor might visit the plant to pick up material, an extra 15 men were rushed to the site to reinforce the 20 men already on duty for the striking International Woodworkers of America.

According to reports, office personnel were inviting bystanders to come into the retail store, while pickets were exhorting them to stay away.

The contractor did not appear, and at press time all was quiet at the plant, at 2614 Bridge Street.

C. S. Madigan, second vice-president of Victoria Local 1-118, IWA, blamed the company for inciting trouble.

"We have a legal picket here and will try to maintain it," he said. "About 100 men are employed here and if there is trouble we can get more pickets.

"This is the only place in town where we are having trouble," he said.

Company officials, however, said the union had been trying to stop customers from entering the store on legitimate business.

The Bridge Street plant, in addition to being office headquarters for the millwork plant, is a retail outlet handling all kinds of builders' hardware, paint, and other hardware items in a steady trade with the general public.

"There is nothing illegal about a customer entering our shop," a company spokesman said.

No Government Action In Sight

There is no immediate prospect of the government taking part in negotiations between coast timber operators and 27,000 striking woodworkers, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said today

"The parties are squared off for a fight, and neither side has asked for government intercession," he said.

Only some 2,200 woodworkers voted against the strike in last month's government-supervised vote on the wage issues between lumber operators and woodworkers, Mr. Wicks said.

Disclosing details of the vote, the minister said the IWA lists 27,829 members.

Of these a total of 22,832 cast ballots and 20,448 favored a strike while 2,200 voted against. There were some spoiled ballots.

A total of 203 IWA bargaining units took part in the vote and 191 favored a strike while 12 were against.

Premier Bennett said Thursday in Vancouver the government will increase spending to help overcome the blow to the province's economy created by the strike.

At the same time he said in an interview the government is "very anxious" to bring both sides in the dispute together.

"We won't withdraw into a shell," he said. "B.C. is in a good financial position and we intend to step up more contracts to keep the economy good."

He did not elaborate.

It has been estimated that the strike against 123 coast operators which entered its fifth day today is costing the economy between $1,000,000 and $3,500,000 a day.

Hoffa Backs SIU In Ship Dispute

(See Page 2)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Another union may become involved in the complicated Northland Navigation Company dispute.

The Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) announced in a statement today that James Hoffa, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, has assured the SIU of support.

The National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC) now is on strike against Northland and in a dispute with the SIU which claims jurisdiction over Northland engineers.

The International Warehousemen's and Longshoremen's Union (CLC) has refused to cross engineer picket lines and for a while SIU men were unloading and loading Northland ships.

The ships now are tied up because deck officers refuse to sail without N.A.M.E. engineers.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Members of the Seafarers' Internation Union (Ind.) have been told by their officers to stay clear of violence, even if it means staying out of beer parlors.

Norm Cunningham, SIU port agent here, said in a statement today the union condemns the brawlings in public places of the last few days.

Queen Begins B.C. Tour

(See Page 17)

From Times News Services

FIELD, B.C. — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip entered British Columbia this afternoon for the far western part of their national tour just like a pair of touring motorists.

They travelled by car from Banff, Alta., to Lake Louise and then to Field over the newly-reconstructed section of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Ahead of them is an eight-day journey through B.C. which will be interrupted by a two-and-a-half-day holiday at secluded Pennask Lake.

TREAT FOR CHILDREN

The train arrived at 10 a.m. MST, exactly on time. The royal couple had spent the night aboard it in Calgary and made the 80-mile run to Banff in less than two hours.

The hatless prince wore a tan suit.

After the official greetings the Queen and the Prince walked directly to their open convertible for a drive through Banff.

As they got into the car Prince Philip started to sit down but the Queen motioned him to rise. As they left the station the royal couple were standing up in the car so they could be seen easily.

ADVENTURE FOR QUEEN

Calgary Makes Royal Whoopee

By PETE LOUDON
Times Staff Reporter

CALGARY—The Queen flew 2,000 miles Thursday into a real western adventure, complete with daredevil cowboys, rough-riding redskins and an outdoor barbeque which lasted long after dark.

LOUDON

An estimated 400,000 persons welcomed the Queen and the Prince after they whistled in from Fort William aboard an RCAF Comet jet.

Calgary's traditional informality was evident throughout. There was no guard to inspect, no majestic pause for the booming of cannon.

Instead, a veteran's color party dipped flags and a pipe band shrieked a brief Royal salute. There was a short handshaking ceremony climaxed by presentation of a white stetson to Prince Philip by Mayor Don McKay. Then the fun began.

A choir of SPEBQSA members (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America) gave out with Tumbling Tumbleweeds and Ragtime Cowboy Joe. Another group burst into a square dance.

Calgary has the largest area of any city from Toronto west. There seemed to be crowds on every inch of it—stetsoned, in levis and high-topped boots, and some even in bathing suits.

First stop was at Jubilee Auditorium where hundreds of Guides had been waiting 2½ hours in a broiling sun to cheer themselves hoarse.

Inside were Brownies, crippled children and Golden Age Club members, trumpeters of the Lord Strathcona Horse and vets from the Col. Belcher Hospital.

The Royal cavalcade drew increasing crowds on the way to the stampede grounds, a tour of the reconstructed Fort Calgary and the teepee village of the Blackfoot, Stony and Sarcee Indian bands.

There were 20,000 hooting and hollering in the grandstand as the Royal guests entered the gates.

And what a show. The Queen and Prince Philip were oblivious of the wave of dust kicked up as the chuckwagon races got under way.

Chuckwagons are four-horse work wagons used by ranchers for feeding range crews at round-up. They must weigh 1,350 pounds and carry a stove and other weighty equipment. As the race starts and the drivers give their rearing horses their heads, two cowboys must tumble a fly tent into the wagon while another loads the stove, sometimes running after the wagon with the stove in his arms. Then they mount to pursue their chuckwagon.

In one heat there can be 32 horses. It's a fight all the way, with a total prize of $23,680 to the winners.

The Royal couple were on edge of their seats. They met champions of other years in bronc-busting, roping and other cowboy skills before departing, 75 minutes later than scheduled, as the voices of the 20,000 joined in "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

The mood changed as the party arrived for the barbecue at the vast estate of Judge M. M. Porter. Here the elite of society, 250 strong, waited as range cooks pitchforked 500 pounds of prime beef from glowing open pit grills, tossed salads and baked the cowman's staple—beans.

As the sun set on the foothills to the west, a massed pipe band marched and countermarched over the rolling field and mounted redcoats appeared in the distance, cantering in and out of the fringe of woods.

Later, the Queen and Prince Philip retired to the royal train which is carrying them today into B.C. and the 880-mile trip to the coast.

The host of kids on bikes and motor-scooters who pedalled alongside the procession through town . . . the gifts from the city, mother-and-daughter charm bracelets for the Queen and Princess Anne and matching gold belt buckles for Prince Philip and Prince Charles.

There were the flowers sent by Mayor McKay to the Royal train. They bore the dates July 10, 1949, and 1959 — a pretty reminder of the day 10 years ago when King George VI announced the engagement of his eldest daughter.

There was the pantomime on the auditorium stage where the Queen received an earlier bouquet in silence. There was no microphone.

There was the Indian village of gayly painted exteriors, but not-so-gay interiors where as many as five families and sometimes 20 children live in each during stampede week. Proud of their traditional beaded and feathered dress, the Indians don't smile much, except for the children—especially the one hoisted on the shoulders of a burly photographer to better see her Queen.

There was the chat with Calgary's stampede queen Julie Ackerman. The Queen asked the junior queen how long she would reign. There was the appearance of a uniformed wren at the barbeque — petty officer Rosalee Auger of HMCS Naden at Esquimalt. She became an aide to the royal party in January and served in the royal yacht during the seaway tour as a sea-going Wren. She hopes to look in on the "Wrennery" at Naden next week, but expects a draft to Halifax at the tour's conclusion.

Finally, Prince Philip indicated he would remember the 27 pipers and drummers of the Calgary highlanders and the 19th artillery, bitter rivals, who marched Thursday in truce. "They play well together," he told their pipe majors.

. . . PICKETS

ployers, represented by Forest Industrial Relations, and the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) are being "unrealistic."

"I think there is an area of settlement—an area of agreement between 10 and 12 cents an hour for a one-year agreement."

The woodworkers are demanding a 20 per cent wage increase over a base rate of $1.72 in a one-year contract. The employers have offered 12 cents in a two-year contract.

Both sides in the dispute today were awaiting the outcome of anti-picketing injunctions and damage claim hearings conducted in Vancouver.

A group of men wearing large IWA lapel buttons at Ogden Point resulted in a refusal by longshoremen to work three lumber ships in port. At Port Alberni, the IWA was accused of trying to induce pulp and paper workers to leave their jobs and of marking some logs and lumber as "hot".

WATERFRONT GOONS

'Enough Bats To Start Ball League'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police arrested 13 men armed with baseball bats, bicycle chains and a shotgun Thursday and said they believed they had prevented a serious outbreak of goon warfare in Vancouver's waterfront union squabble.

The men were arrested as they drew up in three cars outside a hotel in downtown West Hastings Street. The weapons were seized when officers lined them up against a wall and searched the cars.

"There were enough bats to start a baseball league," an officer said.

Three men were injured and eight arrested Wednesday night in a beer parlor roughhouse during which one faction accused another of doing "scab" work during the two-week-old strike of engineers against Northland Navigation. Forty men were involved.

"GOON SQUAD"

One man was injured in a similar fracas Tuesday night which resulted in no arrests.

Furniture and glasses were hurled in the two earlier incidents. Police said Thursday night's seizure indicated the dispute had developed into "goon squad" activity.

Officers had been patrolling downtown streets all evening on the lookout for further disturbance involving members of rival groups in the heated jurisdictional dispute. The men arrested were charged with possession of offensive weapons.

ASK CERTIFICATION

Meanwhile the dispute took a new turn Thursday night.

A spokesman for a group of Northland engineers said application has been made for a change in certification which would certify the Seafarers International Union, recently expelled from the Canadian Labor Congress, as bargaining agent for the men.

The engineers at present are represented by the National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC) which called the strike against Northland June 26 in support of pay increase demands.

Kevin Heard, who described himself as spokesman for a group of 18 Northland engineers, said affidvits have been forwarded to the federal labor relations board asking that the N.A.M.E. be decertified and a vote taken to determine a new bargaining agent.

The SIU was expelled from the CLC following complaints by the N.A.M.E. of a raid on its membership.

The N.A.M.E. has accused SIU of supplying men to replace the striking engineers and longshoremen who have refused to work the company's 11 struck vessels.

ARRANGE FOR SUPPLIES

Capt. Harry Terry, president of Northland, said Thursday night the company has made arrangements for supplies to be taken to northern coastal communities which rely on Northland services for their only means of surface communication.

He said small boats would take the needed supplies, none of which would come from Northland ships. He declined to give further details.

There was no report of any progress towards a settlement in the engineers' pay dispute. The men are seeking a 20 per cent increase in their present rate which ranges from $330 a month.

lease-purchase, or a deferred payment scheme, which would see only interest being paid until a certain year when payments on the principal would commence.

The latter method would work in well with the city's financial position after 1975 when it will be virtually debt-free.

RENT REVENUE

Besides the sale price of the present City Hall property, Victoria could lay down almost $200,000 in cold cash by the end of the year if the current rate of sales of city-owned lots is maintained.

Also helping out would be the extra two floors of the proposed building that would bring in revenue while being sub-let.

Significantly, the additional two floors could provide more civic office space if the Greater Victoria area should amalgamate.

Dominion Construction vice-president G. R. Bentall filled out details of the plan after aldermen received a survey of the financial aspects by city manager C. C. Wyatt and a report on the construction facets at today's special meeting.

LONG SEARCH

The proposed building is similiar to a design presented to the city by Mr. Clack this spring when studies of a combined city hall-civic auditorium were under way. It provides for a future addition of a civic auditorium.

The plans cap a years-long search by several councils for a method of obtaining a new city hall. They follow a determined bid by city officials to recover from a serious blow last year when Woodward Stores Ltd. was unable to complete a deal for purchase of the present City Hall and adjoining property.

Three States Plan Pacific Power Link

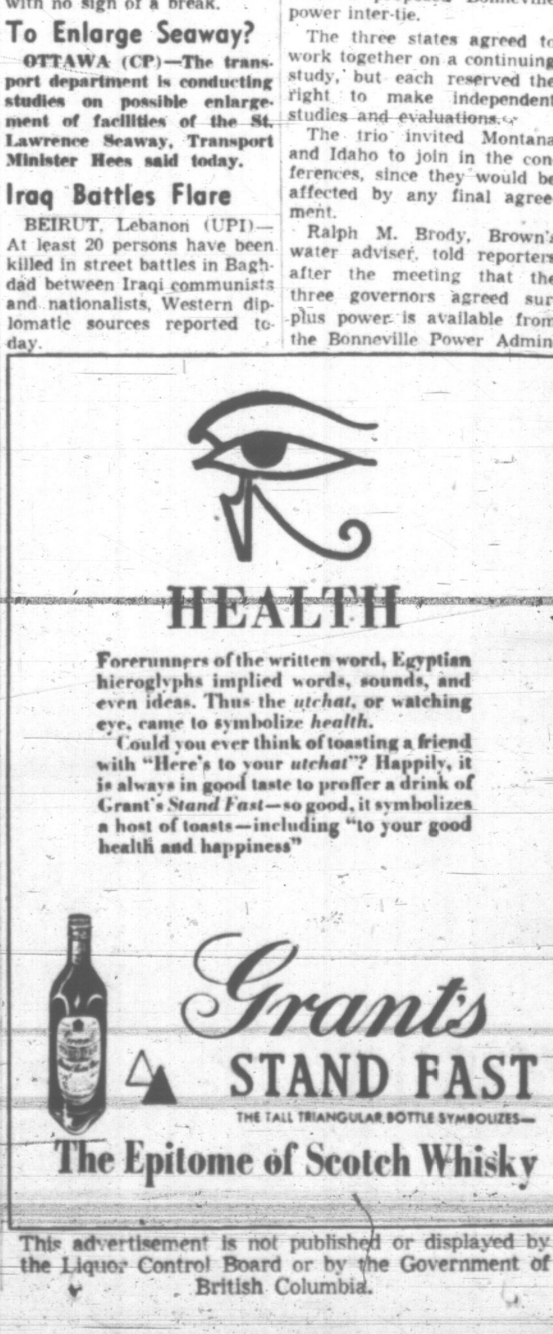
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The three Pacific Coast governors have agreed to launch a three-state power hook-up.

Governors Edmund G. Brown of California, Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Albert D. Rosellini of Washington, meeting here Thursday, adopted a three-point policy for working toward a proposed Bonneville power inter-tie.

The three states agreed to work together on a continuing study, but each reserved the right to make independent studies and evaluations.

The trio invited Montana and Idaho to join in the conferences, since they would be affected by any final agreement.

Ralph M. Brody, Brown's water adviser, told reporters after the meeting that the three governors agreed surplus power is available from the Bonneville Power Admin-



HEALTH
Forerunners of the written word, Egyptian hieroglyphs implied words, sounds, and even ideas. Thus the utchat, or watching eye, came to symbolize health.
Could you ever think of toasting a friend with "Here's to your utchat"? Happily, it is always in good taste to proffer a drink of Grant's Stand Fast—so good, it symbolizes a host of toasts—including "to your good health and happiness"

PRAYER FOR TODAY

God, forgive us our ulcers. Forgive us, God, our want of peace, our lack of trust, our feverish and unstable minds. There is One Whose word stilled the wind and the sea, Whose presence can quiet the turbulent heart of man. May we have the constant experience of His nearness, and may we find the peace that He can give. In Him is the peace of strength. In Him is found the quiet fullness of life; in Jesus' name. Amen.

City aldermen Thursday agreed to lease a ballfield on Hillside to the Junior Chamber of Commerce for another year for use as a Little League park.

Runaway Heiress Nabbed by Police

CONSETT, Eng. (Reuters)—Katherine Dowsett, 20-year-old runaway heiress, was taken into custody today by a London high court official who will escort her back to London.

Miss Dowsett, a ward of the court, was detained Thursday night by police as she was riding in a car with her fiance, London playboy Edward Langley, 27.

She was held on a warrant for contempt of court.

The blonde heiress ran away to Scotland with Langley last May. Later they returned to England when a judge ordered Langley to return her to court custody.

She again was reported missing from London, June 6, and by June 27 she and Langley had given notice of their intention to marry to a registrar in southern Scotland.

Later the girl's father, shipping magnate Harry Dowsett, lodged an objection to the marriage and the London high court ordered her not to see or have any communication with Langley. The order was not applicable as long as the couple remained in Scotland.

The ravens that have been kept around the Tower of London for centuries are fed an official daily ration.

KIDNAPPED MONKS FOUND ALIVE SAFE

ALGIERS (AP)—Two trappist monks kidnapped by Algerian rebels from the Thibarine monastery last week have been found alive by a French Army unit, army headquarters announced today.

A communique said they were found in the eastern Ouarsenis mountains, some distance from their monastery. There was no explanation from the French or the rebels why they were kidnapped.
